PHILADELPHIA BOOTLEG RING FLOODED U. S. WITH ALCOHOL

District Attorney Says 'Boo
Boo' Hoff's Organization Diverted 350,000 Gallons in Two Years.

ENORMOUS SUMS PAID TO POLICE

Firearms Dealer Admits He Sold Machine Guns and Bullet-Proof Vests to Gang Leader.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—Nationwide ramifications of a Philadelphia liquor ring were disclosed by District Attorney Monaghan to-day.

He said he had evidence ready for presentation to the grand jury investigating the activities of bootleggers and gangsters showing that within the last two years the bootleg ring of which Max "Boo Boo" Hoff is said to be the head, had diverted more than 350,000 gallons of alcohol from a single distillery in this city "in all parts of the country." Hoff is a manager of prizefighters.

The grand jury today recommended that Charles Beckman, captain of detectives, be removed from office. The jury's report stated that evidence presented to it showed that Beckman was unfit to hold any office under the municipality. The nature of the evidence against Beckman was not disclosed.

Last week the jury received a report that it had evidence that police officials and detectives had been bribed in the enforcing of the liquor laws. This week Beckman was called as a witness before the jury, as was also his mother. Later both denied that they were possessed of large amounts of money. Both Beckman and his mother said that she had inherited about $70,000 from a son who died nearly two years ago. He was a former saloon keeper.

Mayer Mackey, ordered Capt. Beckman suspended at once pending trial of charges to be brought against him before the Civil Service Board.

An eight-page statement is said to have been made by Edward S. Goldberg, dealer in machine guns and ammunition, declaring that Hoff had purchased from him three machine guns and a number of bullet-proof vests such as were used by bootleggers and gangsters in their warfare for the control of the liquor business.

Goldberg Implicates Hoff.
Goldberg was released in $10,000 bail on a charge of perjury after he had dictated and signed the statement. After reciting his dealings with Hoff and furnishing other names and dates to the investigators he again was taken before the grand jury.

The perjury charge was lodged against him after his first appearance before the jury on Wednesday. Assistant District Attorney Schofield, speaking for his chief, said Goldberg had "lied" because he was "afraid of gang revenge."

"We have evidence," Monaghan said today, "bootlegging on an enormous scale, of enormous sums paid for corrupting of policemen and police officials. And we now have further evidence that violence, machine guns, bullet-proof vests and intimidation go hand in hand with alcohol and murders on the highways."

"Documents in this office disclose diversion of more than 350,000 gallons of pure grain alcohol from a distilling plant in this city. It was shipped by railroad and truck to all parts of the United States, and this diversion was carried on by the bootleg ring which has been named throughout the grand jury investigation.

Hoff Before Grand Jury.

The records tend to indicate that Philadelphia was one of the pivotal points in the country for the manufacture, on a large scale, and for the national distribution of alcohol.

District Attorney Monaghan announced that four additional arrests had been made in connection with the grand jury's investigation.

"This marks one of the most important developments," he said. "We are now prepared to make disclosures which will surpass the revelations that have been made heretofore."

It was reported that a fifth man who is said to have gone to Canada or to a Western State was be-

TONY LOMBARDO, CHICAGO GANG LEADER, SHOT TO DEATH IN CROWDED STREET

Dying He Fires Back at Three Assailants, One of Whom Is Captured—Assassins Wound His Bodyguard.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Tony Lombardo, president of the Union Siciliano and reputed gang leader, was assassinated late today at Madison and Dearborn streets, one of the busiest corners in the city.

Lombardo was shot to death with pistols by three men, who also wounded his bodyguard, Joe Ferrara. Both Lombardo and Ferrara, as they lay on the sidewalk, returned the fire of their assailants while thousands of persons in the streets were endangered by the shots.

One of the assailants, Frank Krejlo, was arrested, unwounded, by Murice Marcussen, a policeman out of uniform and off duty who was walking across the street. He ran through the heavy traffic and took his prisoner while the other assassins fled.

The crowds in the street were thrown into confusion, as mounted policemen, drawing their revolvers, began galloping to the scene, while bystanders dived into alleys and alleys in search of hiding places. "Lombardo never had a chance," declared Policeman Marcussen. "He was walking along the sidewalk when three gunmen stepped up to him. Two were in front of him and one was behind him. They all drew automatic pistols at once and shot him. They shot Ferrara at the same time. Before Lombardo died he had his own pistol out of his pocket and was shooting, but he was too far gone to hit anything.

"I ran as fast as I could, fighting against the crowd that was pushing against me going the other way, and I saw the two down. Krejlo was trying to run, but I knocked him down and hand-cuffed him.

When other policemen, reinforced by seven detective bureau squads with machine guns, arrived at the scene, they found Marcussen standing over his prisoner, and Lombardo and his wounded bodyguard holding a curious crowd at bay with his pistol. Bystanders up to that time did not know who the policeman was.

The police found four automatic pistols lying in a heap beside the wounded men. Lombardo died without saying anything.

Frank also told Hoover he would support Roscoe C. Patterson, Republican nominee for the Senate, and would not run as an independent candidate in the Missouri senatorial election in November.

"I am for Herbert Hoover and the entire Republican ticket," Frank said. "I have had many opportunities to run for the Senate as an independent candidate, but I shall not do so. I shall continue as always, a militant Republican.

"I have a personal as well as a political pride in the candidacy of my friend, Herbert Hoover, whom I regard as the world's foremost humanitarian and one of the stanchest, soundest and ablest Republicans ever nominated for the Senate.

"He is certain of Missouri's electoral votes.

"This is not my opinion alone, but that of every Republican and a great mass of Democrats in Missouri. He will carry the State handsomely and will be helped by an unusually strong State ticket.

"We thought the bridge ought to be brightened up," he said.

AIR MAIL STAMP EXPLAINED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Appearance of the new five-cent air mail stamp has occasioned much comment among purchasers.

The authorities say the design on the stamp represents the highest airway beacon in the world. It is situated on top of Sherman Hill, 20 miles west of Cheyenne, Wyo.

On the Boeing Air Transport from San Francisco to Chicago route. The beacon stands 10,000 feet above sea level.

Although nearly two hours of debate preceded the vote, the resolution was adopted with few dissenting votes. Cheering which lasted several minutes followed the announcement of the vote.

The resolution stated that the Democratic candidate was endorsed solely on his 100 per cent stand in favor of labor.

GERMAN AIR FLIVER
FLOWN BY PHIL LOVE

Development of Glider
Following Los Angeles Racers.

Louis aviation enthusiasts have heard of the remarkable flights by German flyers in gliders a look yesterday at the type aerial glider developed from glider.

While officials at Lambert Field were waiting for visitors in the trans-continental air race to get in from Terre Haute, a single monoplane came into view in the East. In flight it resembled a miniature Bremen, the trans-Atlantic Junkers monoplane, with a single wing attached to the bottom of the fuselage and the engine presents somewhat up-down appearance.

The flyer made a graceful landing and Phil Love, former flying companion of Col. Charles Lobergh, climbed out with Frank Clemm-Daimler. The plane, the Aeromarine-Klemm Corporation, which has established a plant at Trenton, N. J. Love's plane is one of two of its kind in the United States.

Love explained that he and his crew made a non-stop flight from Columbus, O., about 400 miles, in about five hours without incident. The plane is powered by a 40-horsepower Sampson engine capable of a speed of about 80 miles an hour. The landing speed is 20 miles an hour. Construction details exemplify the roughness of the German designs. A German touch is given in the use of "zu" and "aus" in place of "off" and "on" in marking the throttle. Painted in rich brown, the slender monoplane presents a neat appearance.

After an hour's rest Love and his crew took off at 3:30 o'clock for Kansas City. At the suggestion of Lambert Field associates Love landed over the light propeller plane in one hand, cranking the motor which popped busily, much to the mirth of the outboard motorists in cars. The take-off was graceful as the landing and Love and Kirsch arrived in Kansas City in good order. The plane is not entered in the trans-continental race, but is on its way to Los Angeles to be shown at the annual aeronautical exhibition.

PHILIPSON TRIED
'FIXING' FOR MAN
ACCUSED BY GIRL

Provisional Judge in Police Court No. 1 Admits Asking Policeman Buchanan "To Call Her Off."

SEES NO WRONG
IN THIS REQUEST

Say He Sought to Avoid Publicity in Prosecution for Attempted Assault at Clayton.

Members of the Police Board have before them a report of Patrolman William Buchanan in which he charges that Ben Philipson, provisional Judge of Police Court No. 1, interceded for a defendant charged at Clayton with an offense against a girl.

The case is that against Nat Lerner, 1318 Marcus avenue, in a newspaper distributor, in which the girl accused him of attempting to attack her in his automobile the night of Aug. 18 while parked on a county road.

The girl, 19 years old, is employed in a shirt factory and a room in the home of Buchanan, 5064 Kensington avenue. At midnight of Aug. 18 Buchanan, who was at home, received a telephone message from the Constable's office at Clayton that the girl was in custody with Lerner. Her brother, who also rooms with the Buchanans, accompanied Buchanan to Clayton and brought her home. Lerner was placed in the Clayton jail. The girl later swore out a warrant against him and he was released on bail.

Officer Tells of Phone Call. A week later, Patrolman Buchanan said in his report, "Provisional Judge Philipson telephoned him to come to Police Court. After court adjourned that day, according to Buchanan's report, Judge Philipson asked him to 'call that girl off,' stating he was not interested in Lerner but that Lerner had friends who could do him 'some good.'

Buchanan said in his report that he told Philipson he was surprised that a man in his position would approach a police officer with such a proposition, but the Provisional Judge persisted, remarking, "Officer, you can drop this case if you want to and I am asking for my sake to do what you can and talk to this girl and get her to drop it."

Philipson, when seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter, admitted he called Buchanan to court and talked to him after adjournment. He said, "In most cases I have put them on parole and allowed them to pay fines in installments.

"Many persons have the idea, however, that an appeal to my court means an easy way to 'get off.' But there comes a time when a Judge has to change his policy when people seem to take advantage of his leniency."

Four Appeals.

In line with his past policy, none of the drivers appealing from Police Court workhouse sentences in traffic cases was ordered to the workhouse yesterday. Of four drivers appealing from such sentences, the fine of one was reduced to $10 and the workhouse sentence dropped, and the other three were held on parole to pay fines in installments.

Leroy Good, 1719 South Seventh street, was let off from a 30-day workhouse sentence and his $25 fine assessed in Police Court for speeding last Aug. 18, was reduced to $10.

Henry J. Wichman, president of the Western Oil Pump and Tank Co., 2437 Kosciusko street, pleaded guilty of driving when intoxicated at Grand boulevard and Sidney street, July 30. His sentence and fine of 30 days and $100, assessed in Police Court for speeding last Aug. 19, was reduced to $10.

The value of the estate is placed in trust of Julius Glaser, Walter Glaser, and the National Bank of Commerce, under the following provisions: Three-tenths of the income is to go to Lerner, Rebecca Harrison, as long as she lives, and if insufficient to support her in comfort, the trustees may use part of the principal not to exceed $2500 a year; three-tenths to go to another sister, Mrs. Goldman, under a similar condition; three-tenths to go to another sister, Rachel Harrison Moses, under a similar condition, and one-tenth to go to the brother, Newton Harrison. Upon the death of these beneficiaries, the principal is to be shared by surviving relatives.

Otto Eberley, 25-year-old carpenter of 5932 North Nineteenth street, pleaded guilty of a similar charge. His fine and sentence, also similar to Wichman's, were sustained and he was paroled. He was arrested Aug. 19 on Chouteau avenue near Ewing.

Claude Seirle, 32, 4922 Forest Park avenue, a meatcutter, was found guilty of driving when intoxicated Aug. 14 at Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenue. He was paroled from a 30-day workhouse sentence and will pay his $100 fine in installments.

Mathew T. Cribbin of 1029 Commodore drive, branch manager of the American Mutual Life Insurance Co., appealed from a $250 fine assessed by Judge Rosecan for careless driving last May 30 when he ran through an automatic signal at California avenue and Arsenal street and crashed into an automobile driven by Frank J. Grieser of 2746A Cherokee street.

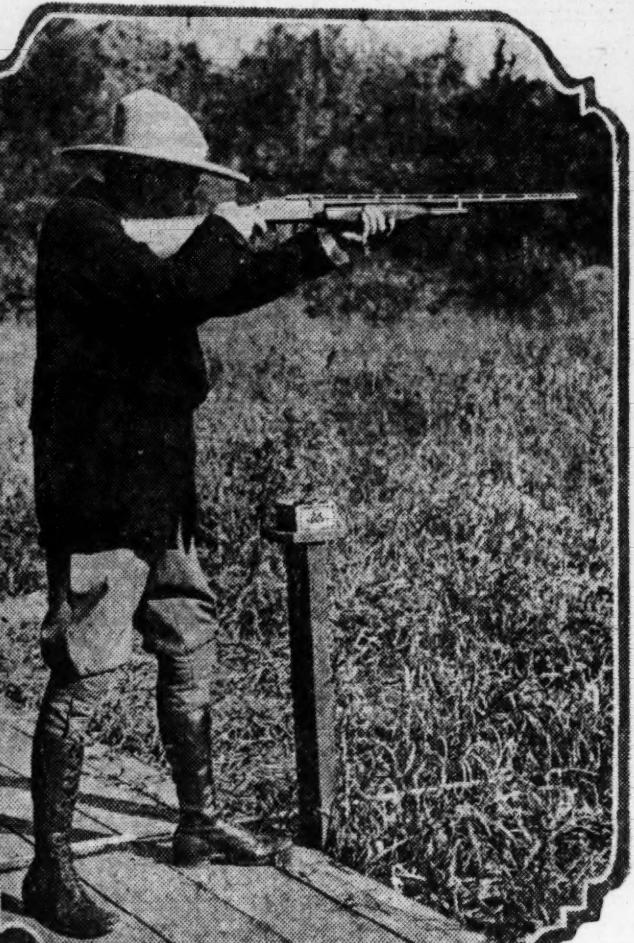

Judge Gayer sustained the Police Court fine but paroled Cribbin to pay the fine at the rate of $2 a week.

Announces That He Will Not

of Drunken Drivers.

Judge Gayer of the Court of Criminal Correction announced from the bench yesterday that his policy of leniency in cases of drunken drivers found guilty in his court would end, beginning with all arrests made next Monday and subsequently. There will be no exceptions and no hope of parole—everybody will go to the workhouse.

In the past my policy in the case of reckless driving while intoxicated has been one of leniency toward men of good reputation and men without previous convictions," he said. "In most cases I have put them on parole and allowed them to pay fines in installments.

ABANDONS AUTOCITY DETECTIVE HAKE, WIT-NESSING ACCIDENT FROM STREET CAR, CHASES MA-CHINE UP ALLEY.

Riding on a Bellefontaine car, City Detective Richard Hake saw a motorist fail to stop after running down a woman and girl in front of 4026 West Florissant avenue at 10:30 o'clock last night.

Hake left the street car and chased the automobile on foot. The driver turned into Mary avenue and went up an alley where he abandoned the car, escaping on foot. Police traced the license number to a former owner, who said he sold the car two months ago. The man who bought it is being sought.

Mrs. Cartha Polick, 38 years old, 4614 Rosalie avenue, and her daughter, Tessie, 11, were struck by the automobile. Mrs. Polick suffered a fractured shoulder, injuries to both knees, and lacerations. Her daughter was injured about the back, chest and legs.

Ellen Johnson, 42, Negro, 2923 Market street, struck by an automobile at Twenty-first and Chestnut streets, Wednesday afternoon, said she was not injured and went to her home. That night she suffered pains and a doctor was called. She died yesterday. An autopsy has been ordered to determine the cause of death.

The automobile which struck her was driven by Eric Habert, 3427 Clark road, St. Louis County.

Alma O'Farrell, 20, 811 Allen avenue, and Bessie Mayberry, 18, 2619 North Nineteenth street, were crossing Ninth street at St. Louis avenue yesterday when a city springing truck squirted water in their direction. They stepped back into the path of an automobile driven by Theodore Schnitzer, 1827 D street, Granite City. Miss O'Farrell suffered injuries to the head and abdomen, and Miss Mayberry suffered lacerations. Police arrested Schnitzer and the driver of the machine, Gus Wassman, 5000 Green avenue.

The automobile which struck her was driven by Eric Habert, 3427 Clark road, St. Louis County.

At a recent meeting between Frank and Patterson in St. Louis, Frank agreed to support Patterson if a recount should confirm his nomination, and Patterson consented to the recount proposal.

In his petition filed with the Supreme Court, Frank asked for a writ of mandamus against the Secretary of State, for a recount of ballots in Jackson County (Kansas City), Buchanan County (St. Joseph), and Pemiscot County. The court held that such procedure was not warranted, as the law contains no provision for contesting a primary election.

William Sherwood, 50, living at the Lindell Plaza Hotel, Boyle avenue and Lindell boulevard, suffered a fractured skull and severe internal injuries last night when he was knocked down by an automobile in front of the hotel. Albert O. Heintz of Quincy, Ill., driver of the machine, was arrested. Sherwood's condition is serious.

Harriet Director Finds Just What He Wants in Recruits From Among the Unemployed.

A new source for raw extras for "the mob," "the people" and "the populace" has been found by John J. Hanley, assistant stage manager for the Municipal Opera. Employed at the last minute to help stage the Freiburg Passion Play he was confronted with the problem of hastily recruiting a legion of Roman soldiers.

They had to be mobilized at once or the first practice would be up. Where to get them? A newspaper headline, "Police Stations to Act as Employment Agencies" popped into his mind. Hanley phoned Chief Gerk. In a little while men who had reported to various district stations their need of work were applying for jobs as soldiers of Caesar. They came from all over the city—from the Angelica, the Soulard, Dayton, Central and other stations.

"They make good soldiers, too, the best I've seen," said Hanley. "Look at the way that centurion beats the two thieves!"

NO CHANCE FOR SMITH'S LIQUOR
PLAN, SAYS CURTIS

Democrats Cannot Amend Constitution to Get State Control, Republican Candidate Asserts.

CALLS FOR UPWARD TARIFF REVISION

Cites $33,000,000 Importations in Shoe Industry as Proof of Contention Change Must Be Made.

By the Associated Press.
SALEM, Mass., Sept. 7.—Senator Curtis, the Republican vice presidential nominee, told a Republican rally here yesterday that the Democrats would be unable to go through with the state control liquor program of Gov. Smith, their standard bearer, because of the "impossibility" of amending the Constitution.

In his second attack on the solution of the liquor problem advanced by the Democratic presidential nominee, Senator Curtis reiterated that the Democrats are "trying to fool you," and he added, "don't grab at the straw because it won't hold."

After reciting his record as Prosecuting Attorney for four years in Topeka, Kan., where he said he closed 58 saloons in enforcing the State dry law, the Senator declared: "I don't want to influence you on this question, but I want to tell you the facts. Don't let them fool you. They cannot amend the Constitution as Congress is now constituted. Both Democrats and Republicans in my State endorse the prohibition law and that is true of many states. I believe in a Prosecuting Attorney who enforces the law. We must try to, anyway, and there is no use in putting up a man who says he is bigger than the law."

The crowd, mostly women, gave scattering applause to prohibition remarks and a hearty reception to the nominee.

The Kansas Senator also declared that "this is a free country and everyone in it has a right to worship God according to his own dictates." He added that "no party has an edge on patriotism," and called for "a straight out campaign."

Prohibition was brought up earlier in the meeting by Representative Andrew, Republican, of this district, who said the Democrats had nominated a "wringing wet" for President and a man for Vice President "who is a dusty dry." He declared the Democrats "poverty stricken for an issue" and "united on only one issue—hunger for office."

Senator Curtis called for upward revision of the tariff. He said the Democrats wanted to reduce the tariff rates. In the midst of the boot and shoe factories of this section he stated that there were $25,000,000 of boots and shoes imported last year and he declared he would erect a tariff barrier high enough to shut out all these imports.

Senator Curtis stopped here en route to Bangor, Me., where he speaks today.

The only definite speaking engagement for Sept. 28 was set for Oklahoma City in the morning. It has not been decided finally whether Senator Curtis will speak in Guthrie on Saturday or the next day. He is listed for an address at Lawton Sept. 29, and a speech at Enid that night.

FATHER KILLED AFTER SAVING SON'S LIFE

Throws Boy From Auto Before Train Collision—Parent's Companion Fatally Hurt.

By the Associated Press.
LACHUTE, Que., Sept. 7.—The presence of mind of a father in throwing his 7-year-old son from an automobile when he saw that a collision with a train was inevitable saved the boy's life. The lad was injured. The father and the driver of the car were killed.

The dead are Col. G. N. Blais, an engineer in the Provincial Department of Roads, and Lomer Fugere, Divisional Superintendent of Roads at Lachute. Fugere's son was saved.

The automobile in which they were riding collided with a Canadian Pacific Railway train near here yesterday.

Blais was a brother-in-law of J. A. Boullanger, Deputy Minister of Roads. Fugere was the nephew of Sir Lomer Gouin, former Premier of the province and former Minister of Justice in the Dominion Government.

Pussyfoot Johnson Bets on Hoover.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 7.—William E. (Pussyfoot) Johnson, militant dry crusader from Gov. Smith's own State, said today that the Democratic presidential nominee would not carry the State of New York in the coming election. "If I were given to betting I'd bet a crate of little apples that Hoover will carry New York," he told reporters. "Gov. Smith never did carry New York anyway, he carried two or three counties and New York City. That's what made him Governor."

RUTH ELDER'S HUSBAND PLANS DIVORCE ACTION

"Don't Be a Fool," Woman Flyer Said When He Wanted to Kiss Her.

By the Associated Press.
BALBOA, Canal Zone, Sept. 7.—Lyle Womack hopes to obtain an interlocutory decree of divorce in December from Ruth Elder, who "chose a career rather than be a housewife." Her failure to kiss him upon her return to New York after almost flying across the Atlantic is cited in his petition for divorce as a cause of much embarrassment. He charges that at that time she said to him in an undertone, "Don't be a fool."

Cruelty is charged. Although an interlocutory decree may be obtained in December under the laws a full divorce cannot be granted before next June. Womack says his weight has been reduced, efficiency for work lessened, and health and reason endangered. He charges that his wife's trans-Atlantic flight attempt caused him many sleepless nights.

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 7.—Ruth Elder will not contest the divorce action filed against her in the Canal Zone by Lyle Womack. "If we want a divorce there must be a good reason," she said. Miss Elder, in answer to Womack's charge of neglect of her home, asserted he had provided no home.

WEST MISSOURI POWER CO. ASKS FOR PERMIT FOR DAM

Would Establish Hydro-Electric Plant on Osage River at Osceola.

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 7.—The West Missouri Power Co., with headquarters at Pleasant Hill, Mo., today filed application with the State Public Service Commission for permission to construct a dam on the Osage River and a hydroelectric plant at Osceola, Mo., in St. Clair County. Estimated cost of the dam and power plant is given at $256,900.

The company proposes to install two generators of 800 kilowatt capacity each, to supply current to the Missouri Public Service Co., and the Ozark Utilities Co., two power utilities operating in Western and Southwestern Missouri.

The application included an order from the Circuit Court of St. Clair County granting rights and privileges to construct the dam and power plant.

Operating expense of the power plant after construction would be $31,850 annually.

SCHNEIDER SPENT $4992 IN UNSUCCESSFUL RACE

Clyde W. Wagner's Campaign for Lieutenant-Governor Cos Him Nothing, He Says.

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 7.—William R. Schneider of St. Louis, who was a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor on a business in government platform, spent $4992.95 in his unsuccessful race, his expense account filed today with the Secretary of State, shows. Of this amount $1174 went to the Missouri Free Association for advertising.

Clyde W. Wagner of St. Louis' unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant-Governor, did not spend a cent, he said in his statement.

Orlin M. Hill of Overland, candidate for the Republican nomination for State Senator from the Twenty-fifth District, spent $427.

LIBERTY BOND REFUNDING LOAN

Treasury Offers $525,000,000 Certificate Issue Paying 4 1/2 Per Cent.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—To aid in retiring outstanding bonds of the Third Liberty Loan, the Government is offering $525,000,000 in Treasury certificates at 4 1/2 per cent interest, a rate higher than that of any Federal issue since 1921.

The new securities are to be dated Sept. 15, when Third Liberty Loans come due, and will mature in nine months. About $970,000,000 in Third Liberties are still outstanding and approximately $70,000,000 in interest on the national debt also must be met Sept. 15. About $455,000,000 in income and corporation taxes are due on the same date.

In announcing the new issue, Secretary Mellon said that final redemption of the Third Liberty Loan bonds would bring to a close "the last operation of the Treasury in 1927, which in the course of 18 months have resulted in the refunding or retirement of over $5,000,000,000 of Liberty Loan bonds, accompanied by important reductions in interest charges."

$45,000 OF BANK LOOT FOUND

Officers of Iowa Depository Didn't Know Bonds Were Stolen.

By the Associated Press.
MISSOURI VALLEY, Ia., Sept. 7.—A package containing $45,000 in bonds was found yesterday by Sheriff's deputies on the trail of robbers who held up the State Savings Bank here Wednesday and escaped with $6000 in cash. Bank officers did not know that the bonds had been stolen.

At intervals along the trail the posse with bloodhounds, discovered coins dropped where the robbers clambered through fences.

Crushed to Death by Coffin.

SMITH AS A CATHOLICF. Scott McBride of Anti-Saloon League Says Issue Is
"Booze, Not Religion."By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The charge that the Anti-Saloon League is opposing Gov. Smith, the Democratic presidential nominee, on account of his religion was declared to be absolutely false in a statement issued last night by F.
Scott McBride, superintendent of the league."Never in its 35 years of fighting against the liquor traffic," McBride declared in his statement, "has the Anti-Saloon League opposed any candidate because he was a Catholic. The league has repeatedly supported dry Catholics when their opponents were wet Protestants."He added that the league would have supported "the dry Catholic" instead of the wet Protestant if the Democrats had nominated
"Senator Thomas Walsh of Montana or Col. Patrick Henry Callahan of Kentucky," and the Republicans had selected "Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbian University, or former Senator Wadsworth of New York."McBride said that "he widely published statement by Senator Pat Harrison and more recent declarations by Smith's supporters that the drys were fighting him because of his religion are a part of the campaign to distract attention from Smith's wetness."He charged that the Smith supporters had raised the religious issue and not the drys."The apparent purpose of the Smith forces is to win voters," he declared, "with a campaign for religious liberty whom they could not hope to win on the real issue which is enforced prohibition versus the licensed liquor traffic.
They hope to win the vote of dry Catholics in spite of Smith's wetness and of dry Protestants on the ground of religious liberty."The Anti-Saloon League is opposing Smith "solely because of his record and attitude on the liquor question," he said. "The issue is booze not religion."Smith, he characterized as the outstanding defender of the saloon until the nation went dry and now as "the chief warrior for the return of liquor with all its degradation of man and its causation of hunger and want by women and children."He said the league also opposed Smith because he is the "creature of Tammany which has aggressively defended and supported the saloon."ONLY 199 OF 2500 PASS
DRY CIVIL SERVICE TESTOf 175 Agents in Service in District Including Missouri 73 Make Required Grade.Or the 2500 aspirants who took the civil service examination in the hope of entering or remaining in the prohibition enforcement service in the Thirteenth District, composed of Illinois, Iowa and Eastern Wisconsin, only 199 passed, according to Fred Sillway, Deputy Prohibition Administrator at East St.
Louis, who attended a conference at Chicago yesterday at which the results of the examination were announced.Seventy-five of the 175 agents in the district passed the examination.
The results showed, and only three of the 14 agents on duty in East
St. Louis made a passing grade.
Under the revised rules of the service all those failing to pass the examination are discharged from the main in the service until the appointments are made.The examinations, in writing, were taken during June and July, 1927.

JURY GOES TO MURDER SCENE

Court Moved to Canyon Where Woman Was Slain.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 7.—
In a lonely mountain canyon a session of the trial of Russell St.
Clair Betznel, charged with killing his 17-year-old sweetheart, Barbara Maurer, and her unborn child was held today.Taken from the Hall of Justice, where the trial opened yesterday, the jury of seven men and five women scrambled down the steep canyon wall and was directed to the spot where the body was found Aug. 2. The jury and other persons connected with the case made themselves acquainted with the locale where the State's witness Betznel took Miss Maurer, shot her three times and then flung her down the steep canyon walls. Mr. and Mrs.
Henry Maurer, parents of the girl,
from Philadelphia to testify, were directed through the ravine to the spot where the body was found.

FARMER-LABOR OFFER REJECTED BY REED

Missourian Refuses to Be Running Mate of Ex-Army Officer on Ticket.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 7.—After the presidential nomination tendered him by the Executive Committee of the Farmer-Labor party had been accepted yesterday by Col. Frank Elbridge Webb of San Francisco, Senator Reed of Missouri was offered the vice presidential nomination of the party, but firmly declined it.

"I am not running on the Farmer-Labor ticket or any other ticket," the Senator declared in a long-distance telephone conversation from Sayner, Wis., where he is fishing, to the Kansas City Star. "I am positively astounded." Reed added with emphasis. "I never dreamed of such action. I am for Gov. Smith, and the Democratic party."

The presidential nomination was accepted by Webb, according to his statements to the press in San Francisco and in a telegram to officers of the party meeting here.

Nominee Was Formerly Officer in U. S. Army.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 7.—Frank Elbridge Webb, San Francisco promoter, was formerly an army officer. He said he stood firmly for farm relief and believed the Volstead act should be submitted to a popular referendum. He declined to discuss his party's platform, but said he would issue a formal statement later giving his views and opinions. He has been a Republican.

Webb is 59 years old. He retired from the army with the rank of Colonel after the World War. He is known for his interest in projects to construct bridges across San Francisco Bay.

Webb said he had refused to run with United States Senator Heflin of Alabama as the candidate for Vice President. His principal objection to Heflin, he said, was that he used to go to cheap burlesque shows in Washington.

STATE SENATOR LARRY BRUNK QUITS TO RUN FOR TREASURER

Special Election Nov. 6 in Eighteenth District to Name Aurora Man's Successor.

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 7.—State Senator Larry Brunk of Aurora, Mo., secretary of the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission and Republican nominee for State Treasurer, has tendered his resignation to Gov. Baker. Senator from the Eighteenth District. Brunk resigned because of his nomination as the Republican candidate for Treasurer.

Gov. Baker will call a special election in the Eighteenth Senatorial District, to be held the same day as the general election Nov. 6, to elect Brunk's successor as Senator. The Republican and Democratic Senatorial committees of the district will each name a nominee in the meantime for the Senatorship. Senator Brunk was elected in 1922, re-elected in 1926, and two years of the second term remain.

Barry, Lawrence, McDonald and Newton counties comprise the Eighteenth District.

K. OF P. CORNERSTONE LAYING

Gov. Baker Expected to Attend Ceremony Tomorrow.

The cornerstone of the $750,000 Knights of Pythias Building under construction on the northwest corner of Grand and Delmar boulevards will be laid at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Gov. Baker, a member of the order, is expected to participate in the ceremonies. Grand Chancellor John H. Flanigan of Carthage, Mo., other grand lodge officers and many members from out-of-state are expected to attend also.

Members of the 21 lodges of the city will form in parade at present headquarters, 3507 Pine street, and march to the new building for the exercises. The building will be seven stories high. All except the two top floors will be rented for offices and stores. It is expected to be completed early next year.

VETERANS PLEDGED TO SMITH

An indorsement of Gov. Smith and a pledge to vote for him in November, signed by 520 war veterans, most of them Republicans, living at the National Military Home, Kansas, has been received at Democratic Regional Headquarters here. The home, it was stated, has previously been predominantly Republican and in 1924 went four to one for Coolidge.

The preamble of the indorsement is addressed to Gov. Smith and states: "We, the undersigned veterans, wish to express our admiration for the courageous, honest and intelligent manner in which you met the great issues of this campaign in your speech of acceptance. As veterans we have learned through eight years of bitter experience the meaning of red tape, technicalities and bureaucracy."

F. C. Walcott Named for Senate.
By the Associated Press.
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 7.—State Senator Frederic C. Walcott of Norfolk was nominated as United States Senator by the Republican state convention today. Walcott polled 472 votes to 114 for William H. Bidgood, State Tax Commissioner. The nomination of Gov. John H. Trumbull to succeed himself in office was made by acclamation.

At last—
I can tell you

They say a woman can't keep a secret. But I think I did pretty well, walking around the streets of St. Louis this past week, all dressed up in my stylish, new BARTLETT Suit, being stopped, and asked, and questioned by so many kind, and interested and curious folks, and not be permitted to tell you even a word of my story. I think I did pretty well, don't you?

Now the secret is out. Everybody knows that I'm Miss Bartlett, and that the new BARTLETT Store at 6th and St. Charles will be my home—at least for the next few days, while we're having our opening and house warming. Won't you come and visit us during this gala occasion? We'll all be very glad to see you.

Cordially Yours,

Miss Bartlett

SYNTHESIS OF MAN
STILL REMOTE DREAM

Protoplasm Highly Complex Substance; New Elements Discovered in It.

By WATSON DAVIS, Managing Editor, Science Service, GLASGOW, Scotland, Sept. 7.—The day when synthetic men and women may be made in the laboratory, or even when artificial protoplasm may be manufactured and endowed with life, is still far distant. Prof. J. Bronto Gatenby of Trinity College, Dublin, told the scientists assembled here at the annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

Though the dream of laboratory-made life is at least as old as the middle ages, and has been revived in various forms since the development of modern chemistry has revolutionized physiology, it must still remain a dream and even become a more remote dream than ever, because scientists are realizing the vast complexity of even the simplest cell.

Not only is the protoplasm within the cell highly complex in its chemical make-up, but to the practiced eye of the biologist it shows a highly developed structure where the tyro looking through the microscope will see only a bit of uniform mucilaginous substance.

Discover Lipoid Organellae.

Prof. Gatenby announced the discovery of small, specialized bits of substance within the cells, called organellae, composed of lipoids. Lipoids are bodies chemically related to the fats. The existence of these lipoid organellae has hitherto been unsuspected. Only person ignorant of cell structure now endeavors to apply a mechanistic philosophy, the speaker concluded.

Skill at work may prove easier to acquire than skill at play, despite the complexity of some tasks in industry. Prof. T. H. Pear of the University of Manchester told his fellow scientists, in an address on the nature of skill. The athlete, in Prof. Pear's opinion, overcomes only nonintellectual difficulties in mastering his sport and never pursues undreamed of possibilities which lead to the development of new strokes or methods of play. Skill, intelligence and intellect are considered as three distinct things by Prof. Pear. Skill, in his definition, is the integration of well-adjusted performances. Intelligence is the capacity for planning. Intellect is the ability to express concepts in words.

Category of Skills.

Man is spectacularly unskilled at birth, but acquires from his environment most marvellous skills—for instance, the ability to use language. Many animals are born skilled, able to do such things as build nests or dig burrows, but do not learn new skills to as great an extent as man does. Creative skill, either unconscious or artistic, analytic or inventive, is rated highest by Prof. Pear, while the imperfectly adapted responses of domestic and laborers rank lowest in the category of skills, with the stereotyped actions of the drilled soldier only a little higher.

The decreasing size of the family, together with the drift away from the habit of eating large meals of meat are conspiring to cut down the house-wife's daily meat order. And this, in turn, is bringing a demand for smaller joints of meat and cutting a premium on the smaller cuts, according to Dr. J. S. Gordon, president of the Section of Agriculture. The livestock industry of Great Britain is showing a marked reaction to these changed conditions, he told his hearers.

SENATOR HOWELL ASSAILS SMITH AND TAMMANY HALL

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Sept. 7.—United States Senator R. B. Howell formally opened his campaign for re-election here last night with an attack on the record of Tammany Hall and with a plea to voters to renounce Gov. Smith as its product.

In addition to his audience, Howell spoke into the microphone of a portable broadcasting set with a power radius of 15 miles. He will use it in his entire speaking campaign.

Commenting on the candidates of Herbert Hoover and Smith, Howell said:

"Gov. Smith is a product of the city of New York, Tammany and New York City, as his political god-parents. If as President he should effectively espouse the cause of the farmer he would turn his back upon New York City and Tammany. In view of these facts, which of these men, from the farmer's standpoint, is most likely to perform satisfactorily? In my opinion, Herbert Hoover is the man."

$8500 SPENT IN CAMPAIGN TO NAME HAY FOR SENATOR

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 7.—Charles M. Hay of St. Louis, Democratic nominee for United States Senator, spent $8518.08 in his campaign for the nomination, according to his official expense accounts filed yesterday with Charles U. Becker, Secretary of State.

Hay personally spent $2789.33, and the "Hay-for-Senator Committee" spent $4728.75, which was received through various contributions, the account showed.

Hay's expenditures included appropriations for advertising in newspapers, printing, stamping, and clerical hire and postage. Frank G. Harris of Columbia, Democratic nominee for Lieutenant-Governor, filed his expense account, showing he spent approximately $1130.

BOYS! GIRLS!

Here's your chance to join
A REAL BAND

Boys' BAND 50 Boys only GIRLS' BAND 50 Girls only

And it is for Beginners!!

Parents: The boy or girl who is interested in music will never be a discredit to your effort towards his or her welfare. One of the most potent correctives is music, especially when administered in the form of playing an instrument. The first great value of this training lies in the cultural benefit as music contributes to life everything wholesome, uplifting, artistic, and is rich in emotional content.

"Music is God's best gift to man, the only art of heaven given to earth, the only art of earth we take to heaven."

Boys' Prize Three Months' Instruction FREE to all who qualify under the centralized teaching and band-training plan of our Educational Department. Both bands start on the same date. Each member will receive the same amount of individual and ensemble training by the finest teaching talent obtainable.

PRIZE TO BEST BAND
A Gold Drum Major's Baton, beautifully engraved, will be presented to the winning band on the night of the contest. The judges will be band and orchestra conductors of national repute; one chosen by the Girls' Band, one by the Boys' Band and the third by the Thiebes Music Company.

Requirements
The only contest requirements in making application for membership in the Boys' or Girls' Band, are that applicants must be between the ages of nine and seventeen years, and, on account of the contest feature, have never before taken a lesson or played on a wind instrument. This places everyone, whose application is accepted, on the same footing—starts all without handicap.

Each applicant will be tested for tone-deafness, rhythm, conformation of teeth, and breathing test for head and throat obstructions. This test is carefully and thoroughly made to insure all concerned that every accepted applicant has talent, is suited to his or her instrument, and that the success of each applicant can be gauged by his or her conscientious effort. Should we find after the examination mentioned above, a boy or girl to be untaught, or should a physical condition exist that, in our minds, would prevent the applicant or applicants from being a success on his or her instrument, we feel that, in justice to the parents, such applications should be refused.

Announcement

A short while ago the statement that "The Thiebes Music Company could make it possible for practically every schoolboy and schoolgirl in St. Louis to study instrumental music" was made so forcibly that in self defense as well as fairness to the maker of the statement, and to you, we asked to be shown.

Our new EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT is the result of the debate over the statement mentioned above, and it is with satisfaction that announcement of the connection of the statement-maker, an organization of prominence whose work in the music field has been marked with interest, with us to supervise the operation of our new department through the period of its infancy.

We do believe it is possible to make all school children equal in so far as their opportunity to study instrumental music is concerned and we dedicate this new Educational Department to the greater Art—Music, and its efforts towards the realization of the slogan "More and Better Music."

LIGHT AND WATER PLANT AT FULTON PAYING FOR ITSELF

New Quarters and Equipment for Municipal Utility, Costing $175,000, Secured in Six Years.

RESERVE FUND IS PAYING INDEBTEDNESS

Only $50,000 Bond Issue Was Needed to Finance Project—Profits on Hand Paid Rest.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
FULTON, Mo., Sept. 7.—Plans for a public reception in observance of the final completion of Fulton's new municipal water and light plant, are being considered by city officials.

Construction of the new building and installation of equipment have covered a period of more than six years, the work being slow, both because of the necessity of maintaining operation and because of the system of financing improvements from the earnings of the utility.

The new building was completed in 1925 and since then new equipment has been added from time to time. A year ago a switchboard was installed and six months ago a turbine which cost $40,000. Only one machine was transferred from the old plant.

Engineers now assert the plant is equipped to supply Fulton's needs for years to come.

Private Bids Ignored.

For several years open and secret negotiations have been carried on by corporations to buy the Fulton property, but at no time has the matter been broached at Council sessions. Corporation attorneys and other emissaries were told that the city was satisfied with the situation here, and no election on the proposal was ever seriously considered.

One former municipal officer of Fulton asserted recently that it probably would have been highly remunerative for him to have undertaken the task of converting the residents of Fulton to private ownership.

"I could have had the job of being the intermediary for some of the corporation, and no doubt the place would have paid me well, but I am not a fool," he said.

In nearby city, a local agent for one of the large corporations is said to be in a position to collect $50,000 if he can swing the deal that will land the municipal plant in the lap of a well-known corporation.

Property Worth $400,000.

Fulton has a water and light plant whose value is conservatively placed at $400,000. Of this amount the taxpayers had to retire only $55,845 worth of bonds. The remainder of the bonds issued were paid for from the earnings of the plant and additional bond indebtedness is gradually being reduced through the same avenue at the present time.

The city has a rate for current that is as low as any other city of equal size in Missouri, and much lower than the majority, either municipally or privately owned, it is said.

In addition, the City of Fulton gets all of its own current free, instead of having a large bill to pay each month to a corporation. This free current includes the lighting of its "White Way," in the downtown section.

The present plant is equipped to supply a city half again as large as Fulton without the necessity of any additional equipment.

Efforts on the part of corporations to acquire the Fulton plant date back several years, but their activities have been increased in the last three years, and particularly at the time the City of Fulton was considering the erection of a new plant, for which ultimately $50,000 in bonds were issued.

The negotiations included newspaper advertising over a space of months, in which unsigned advertisements made an effort to show how much better it would be for a city to have its electric current furnished by a private utility than by a municipally-owned plant.

$250,000 of Free Service.
"For the outlay of $55,845 on the part of the taxpayers to take care of some of the bonds issued by the city, they have received upwards of $250,000 worth of free service and have their plant that is now valued at $400,000," Superintendent William J. McCarroll said.

McCarroll has been connected with the plant for 23 years and has virtually grown up with it. For 16 years he has been superintendent of the plant, and it was under his direction that all of the improvements were outlined and carried out. Sam K. Black was chairman of the Water and Light Committee when the present new plant was started.

The Fulton municipal waterworks started in a small way. The first investment was $700—paid for a site. The first bond issue was a flotation of $8000 Nov. 29, 1887. For some reason these bonds were never issued, so another election was held April 22, 1888, when the same amount was voted a second time. Later, in that same year, it was discovered that this amount would not suffice to complete the work, so Nov. 25, 1889, a second issue of $12,000 was carried. The waterworks plant finally was put in operation in the winter of 1889-90 with an original investment of $20,000.

Acquires Electric Plant.

The city of Fulton was first supplied with electric current by a company that put a small plant in operation early in 1890. This company operated for five years, but the service was not satisfactory and as the owners were losing money, a deal was made whereby the city purchased the equipment and combined the water and light plant.

April 2, 1895, another bond election provided for an issue of $12,000, the proceeds of which were used in establishing a municipally owned electric light plant. Feb. 21, 1899, another bond issue of $10,000 was voted, and $6000 of that amount was used in erecting a city hall and the remainder for additions and improvements to the water and light plant. Seven years later the growth of the city and additional demands upon the plant made it necessary to call another election for a $20,000 bond issue, supplemented by still another issue of $3000, for the purchase of equipment, both issues carrying.

In 1922 it was learned that $175,000 would be needed to erect a new plant and equip it, so a bond issue of $50,000 was passed by the voters. The remainder of the amount was made available from the water and light plant fund which had been growing from profits of the plant. The last $50,000 bond issue is being retired from earnings of the plant. Thus the system that has been in vogue at Fulton has made it possible to make improvements and pay for them from the earnings, with the exception of the $55,845 that has been liquidated through direct taxation.

Fund for Improvements.

Shortly after McCarroll took charge, a system was adopted setting aside 10 per cent of the gross receipts for plant improvements. This fund is known as the Water and Light Reserve Fund, and by this method it is possible to make improvements without resorting to the expense and trouble of a bond issue. Also money is available in case of a serious break-down or an emergency.

The city is furnished with both water and light service for municipal purposes free. The value of this free service is estimated to be $8000 for electric current and $4000 for water service, or a total of $12,000 a year.

The total revenue for the past year amounted to $84,899.33. Of this amount $37,700.23 was earned above the actual operating expenses, this amount not taking into account the free service furnished.

Recently two reductions have been made in the lighting rates. Also a reduction has been made in the water rates.

The municipal plant has always used local coal although at times coal could have been shipped at a cheaper rate. It has always been the policy of the city to use home coal, thereby furnishing work for an additional number of men in the coal industry.

Light and Water Rates.

The rate for electric lighting ranges from 4 to 9 cents per kilowatt with a minimum charge of 75 cents a month. The power rate is from 3 to 5 cents a kilowatt. The rate for electric heating and cooking devices and electric ranges is 4 cents for the first 50 kilowatt and 3 cents for all used in excess of that amount.

For water the following rates are charged: Thirty-three and one-third cents per thousand gallons for the first 60,000 gallons used per quarter, and 16 cents per thousand gallons for all in excess of that amount. There is a minimum charge of $1.50 for a three-month period.

The water requires no treatment of any kind as it comes from a water bearing strata about 1000 feet below the ground level. The city has two large deep wells and duplicate pumping equipment, one steam-driven and the other electric driven as ample protection for fire protection.

DRUG STORE HOLDUPS

Maid Discovers Burglars at Work in Home of James M. Kurn.

At the pharmacy of Frank Schneider, 2449 North Spring avenue, two robbers took $14 from Schneider and 85 cents from a customer and were about to rob another customer and loot a cash register last night when a woman entered to make a purchase. The nervous robbers departed without completing the job.

Two hours later they appeared at the store of Gottlieb Tubbesing, 1800 North Twenty-third street, and ordered hands up. Tubbesing called to his daughter, who was behind the prescription counter: "Get the police." His daughter screamed for help. The men ran out without loot.

Burglars who visited the home of James M. Kurn, president of the Frisco Railroad, at 5044 Westminster place, Wednesday night, were interrupted at work by a Negro maid and departed after threatening to kill her. In reporting the burglary yesterday Kurn told police he could not determine what was taken until Mrs. Kurn returned from a vacation trip.

The maid, Mary Harris, was on the third floor when she heard noise in the second. She tip-toed down the stairs and saw two men ransacking the room down stairs. She screamed, and one of the burglars covered her with a revolver and told her to shut up. The two men then marched her into the back yard and threatened to shoot her if she cried out. They escaped by running through the house and out the back way.

Burglars in loft buildings at Ninth street and Washington avenue escaped over the roofs when police were called last night. Morris Sobelman and Theodore Nelson were working at the Rosenberg & Friedman Co., 902 Washington avenue, when they heard a noise and saw a man on the fire escape at the fifth floor, trying to open a window. When they tried to capture him, he fled up the escape to the roof. Police were called. A watchman at the Hellring & Grimm Co., 904-06 Washington avenue, heard scurrying of feet on the roof there as the burglars ran from police. When police reached the roof, the burglars were gone, presumably having descended through some other building.

The home of Harry Balsell, 5108 Kingshighway Southwest, was robbed of $255 cash, two payroll checks and two rings valued at $225. Burglars entered the apartments of Murray Trask and Elmer J. Bergman at 4016 Dover place, taking nothing from Trask's home and jewelry valued at $225 from Bergman.

SIR OLIVER LODGE WEARS RED SOCKS WITH FULL DRESS

Appearance at Two Meetings of British Scientists in This Garb

Causes Excitement.

By the Associated Press.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Sept. 7.—Red socks worn by Sir Oliver Lodge at two full dress affairs of the British Association for the Advancement of Science have caused many "whys" among delegates, but thus far no one has had the temerity to put that question to Sir Oliver.

Two scientific viewpoints have been used to consider the subject. Those who have looked at the socks subjectively have said: "We must be color blind."

Those who have viewed them objectively have sighed:

"Well, genius can get away with anything."

The colored socks were in evidence first on Wednesday evening, when the tall, bald, white-bearded scientist, garbed otherwise in sartorial perfection of full dress, walked on the platform at St. Andrew's Hall to listen to the address by Sir William Bragg, president of the Association. The socks were next seen on Thursday evening when Sir Oliver danced with several pretty young women at a reception in the town hall.

BOY FOUND SLAIN, STUFFED IN A BAG, AT CONEY ISLAND

6-Year-Old Missing Child Strangled, Bound With Rope and Body Placed Under Mound of Stones.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch, NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The body of Salvatore Santamarcio, 6 years old, of Coney Island, who disappeared Wednesday afternoon, was found last night in a yard on Coney Island. It was bound with rope and stuffed in a burlap bag. It was found under a mound of stones. The boy had been strangled.

Luigi Panarella, 30, a brother-in-law of the dead boy, was arrested last night. It was Panarella, police said, who pointed out to detectives the murdered boy's grave, within fifteen feet of the windows of the three-room apartment occupied by Panarella.

The murdered boy had gone out with his brother Tony, who returned alone. Tony, it was said told his father, a fruit dealer, that he and Salvatore had visited Panarella's apartment. Panarella, police said, sent Tony out to buy a cigar, and when Tony returned his brother was not in the apartment.

When he asked Panarella where his brother was, Tony told detectives last night, Panarella said: "Oh, he followed you out. I guess he has gone home."

When detectives went to Panarella's rooms and had questioned him for hours before he led them to the mound of stones. Panarella insisted that three men killed the boy.

The three men, Jerry Peiris, John Mariseo and Pasquale Borrelli, were arrested but denied Panarella's story.

In the Santamarcio home, Mrs. Fannie Panarella, 15, accused her husband of the crime, alleging Panarella strangled her brother because he refused to return home to live with her.

SENATOR FESS SAYS G. O. P. STANDS FOR A SOBER NATION

By the Associated Press.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio yesterday analyzed American prosperity of the last eight years in a speech delivered at the Chautauqua County Fair.

"The Republican party stands for a sober nation," said Fess. "It has denounced attempts at nullification of either or both."

The Democratic candidate, consistent with his past, would nullify both and return the drinking place no matter what name it may be called. This attempt will be repudiated in no uncertain terms.

"For eight years under Republican control our prosperity has been the subject of universal comment in the old world. All America appreciated it, except the Democrats."

HELD FOR KILLING HIS SON

Chicago Park Board Member Accused by Wife and Daughter. By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Arthur F. Falk stared at the floor today as his wife and daughter told how he came home in a drunken rage and killed his 22-year-old son. He showed no emotion when a Coroner's jury recommended that he be held for murder, but a little later broke down and sobbed on his mother's shoulder.

Falk, member of the Northwest Park Board, on Aug. 28 shot and killed his son, Eldred, with the latter's shotgun after the youth had berated his father for coming home intoxicated. Falk said when he realized what he had done, he wanted to kill himself but did not know how to reload the gun. Instead he notified the police. Mrs. Falk has retained counsel and has announced that she considers it her duty to help prosecute her son's slayer.

SAYS G.O.P. WILL SWEEP MAINE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—John J. Hopkins, assistant director of the Eastern Speakers' Bureau of the Republican National Committee, returned yesterday from a trip in New England and predicted that every Republican candidate in Maine will be elected "this year with an overwhelming majority."

He said he estimated the Republican candidate for Governor will win by a majority of 50,000 to 75,000. He pointed out that four years ago Governor Brewster's majority was 38,000.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO WE MOVED INTO THIS BUILDING

This business has multiplied four and one-half times in volume since then

On September 8th, 1913, when we threw open the doors of our new home, it marked an epoch in the retailing life of this community.

At that time we figured that this wonderfully equipped store with its tremendous floor area would amply serve our requirements for twenty-five years or more. It was the type of store St. Louis had long sought. St. Louis' steady, sound, substantial growth and the increased confidence in Famous-Barr Co.'s merchandising and value giving policies built our volume by leaps and bounds. In 1920, it became necessary to acquire two more floors or about fourteen percent more selling space to properly serve our public.

The vigorous forward movement resultant from the $87,000,000 bond issue for civic improvements, the very extensive building program, the definite position St. Louis has assumed among America's foremost cities—the very marked spirit of progress evidenced throughout this community, coupled with our steadily increased volume necessitated the "Building For The Future Expansion Program" in which we are now engaged.

On May 1st of this year, we acquired four additional floors in this building, the ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth, giving us twelve floors, a basement salesroom and two balconies, approximately forty percent additional selling space.

On an average of 600 of the highest skilled mechanics have since been laboring constantly, day and night to transform these floors into modernly appointed selling and executive quarters. Swiftly the work goes on—the hum of moving, expanding, growing—Building for the future.

Express elevators on all four sides of the building, 32 of them in all, operating, when completed, to the eleventh floor. . . . New escalators of the latest type have been installed. These, together with our former ones, 15 in all, have a carrying capacity of 66,000 passengers per hour.

Executive offices, employees' quarters, alteration fitting rooms, bookkeepers, cashiers and credit departments have been moved to the upper floors. Many departments, enlarged and beautified are now in their new locations. Other departments are being moved almost daily. 40,000 yards of new rich carpets are being laid. New fixtures are being installed in many sections—most of them made in St. Louis, reflecting the highest type of cabinet workmanship. The expansion work is progressing rapidly.

Smart atmospheric settings in separate shops for the better merchandise; scores of new innovations will be introduced. Many of these enlarged and improved facilities are now ready for our patrons to enjoy.

OUR JUBILEE WEEK

Begins Monday, September Tenth

It will more than ever demonstrate our merchandising and value giving pre-eminence, giving concrete reasons for our spectacular growth. A once a year occasion dedicated to our patrons in appreciation of their loyal, unbounded support.

CRITICISES PROHIBITION VIEWS OF MAJOR PARTY NOMINEES

G. O. P. Congressman Thinks Hoover's View Wrong and Smith's of No Effect.

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 7.—The keynoter of the Connecticut Republican State convention disagrees with Herbert Hoover on prohibition. Congressman Schuyler Merritt of Stamford said in a convention speech last night. "I do not agree with Mr. Hoover because in my opinion special social legislation should have no place in the Constitution." He said, however, the abandonment of prohibition "must be left to further experience and to public opinion." He hoped a "searching investigation will develop means for carrying on this great experiment without disregarding other and more basic sections of the Constitution, such, for example, as the fourth amendment."

Gov. Smith's observations on prohibition, Merritt said, were interesting, but so far as having any effect on prohibition and the eighteenth amendment, "he might as well discourse on astronomy."

$2500 EACH AWARDED TO 14 SWIMMERS IN LAKE ONTARIO EVENT

VIERKOETTER AND MICHEL PROTEST AGAINST PLAN OF DISTRIBUTION

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 7.—Lacking a legitimate winner, the $25,000 prize, offered in the Wrigley marathon swim, has been split up into portions of $2500 each and awarded to 14 of the 199 entrants in Wednesday's grind.

Puzzled over what to do with the money when not one of the competitors was able to finish the 15-mile race, the exhibitors of the Canadian national exhibition decided to grant equal awards to the 14 men they decided had distinguished themselves in the swim.

Thus Georges Michel, of France, last of the field to succumb to the icy waters of Lake Ontario, gets no more, financially, than does Harold L. Preston, of Smithville, Ont., last of the 14-prize winners, who swam only five miles against more than 12 for the Frenchman.

Not Entitled to Money.
The committee announced that it was well aware that this system of disposing of the money would meet with much criticism, but pointed out that under the rules none of the entrants was entitled to a cent. The prizes were offered only for swimmers who finished the grind.

Realizing the swim was unsatisfactory from a number of angles, the committee decided that a race of from two to five miles should be held tomorrow afternoon. Elwood Hughes, swim director, was given a free hand to work out details of the race. He may conduct two races, one for the speed stars and the other for those noted for their endurance.

The committee's announcement was received with some indignation by Michel and Ernst Vierkoetter, of Germany, who was taken from the water after swimming 12 miles, leaving Michel the sole survivor. Representatives of these two foreign entrants protested that the swim was unfair; that they were entitled to more money than others who did not swim nearly so far. Michel claimed that someone in a judge's boat had called out to him that he needed only to exceed the distance swum by Vierkoetter to win the first prize of $25,000. The committee refused to make that one was authorized to make such an announcement and refused to change their decision.

The List of Winners.
The prize winners, their time, and the distances they covered before being forced from the water, follow:

• George Michel, French, 12½ miles, 11:12:57.
• Ernst Vierkoetter, Germany, 12 miles, 7:39:37.

• Louis J. Mathias, New York, 8½ miles, 7:05:00.
• William Erickson, New York, 7½ miles, 4:58:42.

• Mendell Burditt, Toronto, 7½ miles, 4:07:10.

• Myron Cox, Los Angeles, 7½ miles, 4:49:00.

• Seward S. Holley, Venice, Calif., 7 miles, 5:28.

• Roland H. Tegtmair, Seattle, Wash., 7½ miles, 6:11:30.
• George Young, Toronto, 7 miles, 3:30:30.

• C. H. Hummel, Nauvoo, Ill., 6½ miles, 5:18:40.

• Herb of Papenfus, South Africa, 6 miles, 4:00:00.
• Roland E. Cochrane, Cobourg, Ont., 6 miles, 5:25:30.

• Norman Ross, Chicago, 5 miles, 2:27:45.
• Harold L. Preston, Smithville, Ont., 5 miles, 3:34:35.

Sparkler II Is Winner in Star Boat Title Event

NEWPORT HARBOR, Cal.
Sept. 7.—Prentice E. Edrington's trim Sparkler II, pride of the New Orleans gulf fleet, sported the international star boat championship today.

One point was the margin of victory for the Southern Yacht Club in the final point standings of a five day series of races for the international championship and the four foot gold trophy that goes with the title. The Sparkler had 68 points, one more than the Windward, Joe Jessop's green and gold San Diego bay craft, and the Okla, 22-foot skippered by Joseph Watkins of Central Long Island Sound, tied for second place.

Although the Sparkler II won the title, the final race yesterday went to the Movie Star II of Los Angeles, brother, Earl Fink skippered the western craft across the finish line, winner by 4 minutes and 59 seconds. Then the Okla came in, and the Sparkler II crossed the line for third place, 33 seconds later.

Leading the field of 17 craft by three points before the final race, the Windward was left far behind at that start, in fifteenth place at the end of the first leg, the San Diego sloop battled her way through a choppy sea to pass 10 buoys during the next five miles of the race and rounded the last marker in fifth place. The Budsil II, skippered by F. H. Robinson of the Northport Yacht Club, New York, was in sixth place, and Edward V. Willis' ace of Western Long Island Sound in fourth.

Had the Windward been able to beat the ace on the two-mile run to the finish line she would have taken the series with 69 points.

Latzo Meets Lomski.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 7.—Pete Latzo of Scranton, Pa., who has met and defeated most of the leaders of three divisions, meets the latest sensation from the West in a 10-round boxing contest tonight—Lee Lomski, who is being hailed as the hardest puncher in the light-heavyweight ranks. It will be the second meeting between the pair. Latzo having been declared the winner on a foul in a recent bout in Brooklyn.

In the first bout Terry was given the judges' decision after three stubbornly contested rounds.

Another flyweight special will bring Joe Herbst Jr., the Western District junior titleholder, against Doc Hyatt of the Missouri Pacific A. C.

Tourney officials expect to complete arrangements today for a featherweight special between Edgerry Terry of the Flori Olympian team and Jim Fauctett of the Croatian A. C.

Receipt of preliminary entries from Joe Schwartz and Jack Emerich, flyweights, and William Whittle, featherweight, representing the East St. Louis Knights of Columbus, was announced. Herbst stated that he now has 11 candidates for preliminary pairings.

TERRY AND TOMAZZI TO MEET IN RETURN CONTEST NEXT WEEK

A return match between Gilbert "Pewee" Terry of the Flori Olympian A. C. and George Tomazzi of the Tower A. C., flyweights, was announced today by Matchmaker Joe Herbst as one of the special attractions of the amateur boxing tourney to be held under the auspices of the Flori Olympians next Thursday night at the Motorbus Arena.

In the first bout Terry was given the judges' decision after three stubbornly contested rounds.

TROJANS HIRE RUGBY EXPERT OF AUSTRALIA AS PUNT INSTRUCTOR

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 7.—The University of Southern California has imported a rugby expert from Australia to teach its footballers how to kick the pigskin.

Announcement was made today by officials of the institution that Coach Howard Jones will be aided in an advisory capacity by Edward G. Greeves, noted Australian star, who will center his efforts on the development of punters and drop-kickers.

For lack of an outstanding kicker, Southern California has lost numerous games by a lone point and it was to remedy this weakness that Greeves was obtained.

EAST ST. LOUIS HIGH OPENS GRID PRACTICE

The East St. Louis High School football squad held its first workout of the season at Parsons Field yesterday under the direction of Coach William Frazier. Fifty-eight players were in uniform. Sixteen more candidates who are on a waiting list for uniforms will be added.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 7.—Herbert Hoover is a man of destiny.
Henry Ford declared today in an interview advocating the Republican nominee's candidacy."Parties may pick the candidate but destiny picks the Presidency," the automobile manufacturer said."So far back as four or five years ago I saw Hoover was headed for the Presidency," Ford added.Declaring the world is entering a new age, "the industrial and more comfortable age," Ford said the country needs a President equipped to handle the problems of the new day."The country has become more than a group of governmental offices," Ford said. "It is a great and growing social and productive power, and it needs a man who knows how to make the material world serve the social world. It is not enough for him to desire this, but to know how to go about it. Hoover knows."Praised Hoover's Dry Stand.
Ford praised Hoover's stand on prohibition, calling his attitude
"absolutely right.""Prohibition is here to stay, no matter who is elected President," he declared."People do not consider prohibition the issue in this campaign,
they settled that issue long ago.
What they are thinking about is a President best fitted to deal with the problems that will confront the chief executive in this new age—what I call the industrial and more comfortable age."Ford praised Hoover as an advisor and referee for the cross sections of modern life, the financiers, the builders, the workers, the producers and the consumers.This age of labor-saving machines means more employment and greater happiness for every-chines which eliminate the drudgery. The result is general prosperity."Herbert Hoover has been head-good many years—but he didn't pick the candidates, but destiny picks the Presidents. It is nothing against a man if he is not the choice of destiny; but if he is, then he has his job cut out for him. The presidency is not an honor but a job. A mere political President is like a mere oratorical President, not necessary any longer. He is out of date."Calls Hoover a Social Engineer.

"He is fitted by temperament, by training and by destiny to serve as President, to act as a referee and adviser for the financier and the builder, the builder and the worker, the producer and the consumer.""The country has become more cial and productive power, and it make the material world serve the

him to desire this, but to know how to go about it. He knows what people mean when they talk about these things.""What would you think of a business leader who should say that his great mission was to reorganizethe peace treaty ending the great war?"

Frank Pledged Support.

"Hoover's statement was made at the end of another busy day of interviewing callers and working on his Newark, N. J., speech." His visitors included Nathan Frank ofSt. Louis, who brought the best news from Missouri that the Republican candidate had received.
It was that Frank had turned a deaf ear to importunities of his friends that he run as an independent candidate for the Senate in November and would whole-heartedly support the entire Republican ticket.Business and economic condi-

Ambitions of "Foreign Sovereign" May Clash
With Those of Nation.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 7.—A resolution referring to the approaching presidential election and declaring that "the peculiar allegiance that a faithful Catholic owes, according to the teaching of his church toward a foreign sovereign who also claims supremacy in secular affairs may clash with the best interests of the country" was adopted here yesterday by the National Lutheran Editors' Association.The resolution voiced support of the principle of separation of church and state, but urged editors to take no stand either for Herbert Hoover or Gov. Smith in the campaign.It was adopted after the association composed of editors of publications reaching about 2,000, 000 readers had made known its attitude toward a Catholic in the presidency in a statement drawn up by Dr. C. R. Tappert of Philadelphia and adopted by the association. Dr. Tappert is editor of the Lutheran Herald.

Text of Statement:

"If the issue were purely political the church papers could not be particularly concerned about it.
If it were a matter only of the personal religion of the candidate it would be contrary to the spirit of our Constitution to prejudice a man because of his church affiliation.
The situation, however, is peculiar because of claims, teachings and principles of the Roman Catholic church which are antagonistic to and irreconcilable with the fundamental principles enthroned in the Constitution of our country concerning the separation of church and state, such as: The opposition of this church to the toleration by the state of any religion other than the Roman Catholic, its denial of the right of individual judgment, liberty of conscience and freedom of worship, the claim that the worldly government is in duty bound not only to assist, support and protect exclusively the Roman Catholic church, but to suppress, if necessary by force, every other religion."

Recognizing Ideals:

"Allowance may be made for the temporary suspension of the actual enforcement of such claims and principles, but they are recognized ideals, the realization of which must be the aim and constant endeavor of every faithful Catholic.
The situation is further peculiar because of the all allegiance a faithful Catholic owes, according to the teachings of his church to wards a foreign sovereign who claims supremacy also in secular affairs and who has world-wide political interests of his own which may severely clash with the best interests of our country."It becomes the duty of our church papers to give to their readers reliable information as to the attitude of the Roman Catholic church towards the authority of the worldly government and especially the precious liberties guaranteed by our Constitution, to counteract misinformation and to correct false and misleading innuendoes, statements and impressions."The church papers should not will not need not advise their readers how to vote, but must leave this to their own intelligent and conscientious judgment."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Representative Oldfield of Arkansas, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, today declared that Gov. Smith not only would be elected President in November, but that the Democrats would gain control of Congress.
Oldfield has just returned from a tour of the South.Oldfield said: "The situation is gaining strength," Oldfield said, "and the reaction against the 'whispering campaign' being waged by auxiliary Republican organizations is already being felt."Oldfield said that he had found the Democratic organizations in Missouri and Kentucky functioning at high speed and that upon his return to New York he would confer with congressional candidates from Pennsylvania where, he said, these organizations were "encouraging."It becomes the duty of our

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Adolfo Benard, conservative candidate for the presidency of Nicaragua, arrived in New York today after a European trip. He said he might Washington "as an act of courtesy, but not to discuss politics." He said he had always been in sympathy with the policy of the United States toward his country and that the United States was associated with the Kellogg antiwar treaty, while

The Mysteries of Public Utilities.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

LETTER from D. A. Belden, who is head of a utility holding company, calls attention to your omission of a sentence when you quoted from Maurice R. Scharff's article in the Atlantic Monthly. The article was entitled "The Public and Their Utilities." The omitted sentence referred to Government ownership and operation, adding "than which no greater public calamity can be imagined."

If this situation should be forced on the people it can only come because of the greed, rapacity and exploitation of the public utility companies for the benefit of the privileged few. And by the phrase "privileged few" I don't mean the hundreds of thousands of investors who have been induced to purchase limited-rate "preferred" shares, while the promoters swapped among themselves the "dream" in the form of more valuable unlimited profit-sharing securities, to say nothing of huge salaries and "overheads."

Mr. Scharff's article rightfully calls attention to the triumvirate which governs the modern utility operating corporation—namely, the engineering, financial and "management" companies. To consolidate these phases (in these days of economics of operation) would seem to be a logical development—only it would interfere with "inside profits" arising from these intercorporate relationships.

As a consequence, it is today utterly impossible for any investor to tell with any degree of certainty the real net worth of any public utility stock or bond owned. Honeycombed with "undistributed equities," effective minority ownerships and a mass of cloudy and unintelligible bookkeeping and accounting terms, what chance has a person of limited information who happens to own a few shares or a bond or two to know the true intrinsic value of any security?

That is why the Federal Trade Commission, in the words of Chairman William E. Hamm, plans to "push . . . with the greatest possible diligence" the investigation of the utility corporations of the United States. The public may safely prepare itself for some surprises—not entirely of a welcome kind, either.

R. A. WARREN.

An Outstanding Human Being.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WORDS cannot express our unlimited, deep, sincere grief at the loss of that outstanding human being—Dr. Harrison. We shall never forget that true friend of humanity.

He was a philosopher, a historian, and one of the greatest orators man has ever produced. As minister, he conquered the hearts of all peoples and most welcome the poor and the rich, the leader and the common person. All came to be enlightened by the stupendous power of creation of that great humanitarian. His character defines description.

Thus the world lost one of its greatest men, a member of the Jewish race. MAURICE D. APPLE.

An Anti-Sidener Republican.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM in hearty accord with the reaction of Loyal Republican in regard to Howard Sidener's name besmirching the Republican ticket. Like him, I have always voted "straight" but rather than support such a man will be for the coming election, a hopeful Democrat. There are others who intend to express their opinion in this wise, many others.

THIRTEENTH WARD.

As the Death Toll Mounts.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

DON'T let anyone tell you the police are not the motorists' best friend. A policeman reported that the arc lights at Fourteenth and Olive streets were not burning at the time a motorist killed a man standing in a safety zone at that corner. I believe in everybody getting a square deal, but the fact that the street lights were off duty is no testimony to any sane Judge or Jury to take into consideration.

If the accident referred to had taken place on a country road where there are no lights whatever, would the killer be entirely blameless? There is hardly a night that at least a dozen of the arc lights downtown aren't dead. Yet hundreds of motorists have driven over frequently unlit streets without killing anyone.

The big trouble with the average driver is the lack of care and common sense. Motorists should rest with the pedestrian but, again, the city is greatly responsible in this respect. Pedestrians should be compelled by law to cross at cross-walks only and to observe traffic signals the same as motorists. In the meantime, the death toll mounts higher and higher. A proud achievement for the city of St. Louis. NEW CITIZEN.

AWAKENING MISSOURI.

The people of La Grange, Mo., have voted not to sell the public utilities of the town to a Kansas corporation which offered to buy the water, power and lighting plants. The decision was made by popular ballot, and the vote was 371 to 194.

A few weeks ago the Northeast Missouri Press Association, meeting at Hannibal, resolved not to print any more propaganda sent to them by paid publicity men, having in mind the way they had been worked by the power industry and the scathing they had received for it. They were still smarting under J. B. Sheridan's characterization of them as "God's tools."

Two signs, neither great in itself, but both significant, that Missouri is awakening to a realization of what is going on. The time is coming when the whole country will awake to it. There is no reason why La Grange should sell its utilities. They are much safer in the hands of the municipality. To sell them to a corporation which would join them to the utilities of many other towns, pyramid their finances and expose them to the exploiting practices which all honest men and the courts in time must denounce, would be a mistake. It is one which La Grange could only regret. St. Louis, which constantly battles with the privately owned and exploited utilities of the city, would not think of selling her municipally owned water plant. It is the single utility she has that is not a source of almost constant annoyance, the only one free from the financial empires of adventurers in this golden field. If it were proposed to sell it the people would protest in tones of thunder.

After having so shamefully used by the power industry, the press of Missouri owes the people of the State the apology of telling them the truth about this matter. Unless we mistook the temper of the resolution passed at Hannibal this is what they are disposed to do. It is highly important that the people should realize what the power industry is doing. They are going to have a bill to pay, and the longer they sleep the bigger that bill will be.

Fortunately, it is not going to be any bigger in La Grange, Mo.

A TETE-A-TETE IN GENEVA.

During that little get-together talk at Geneva between Foreign Minister Briand of France and Chancellor Mueller of Germany, the conversation must have gone like this:

Mueller: Now, my dear Briand, you must know that the question of evacuating the troops on the Rhineland is one very close to the heart of the German people. There are altogether 60,000 French, English and Belgian troops in this territory, and their presence is arousing the greatest dissatisfaction in Germany.

Briand (looking nervous): But, my dear Chancellor . . .

Mueller: Just a moment. Let me give you an example. The famous watering place of Wiesbaden, of which Germans were so fond before the war, is practically deserted because of the presence of allied troops. The German people do not want to take their vacation at a place whose streets are filled with foreign officers and men.

Briand: But you see . . .

Mueller: I beg of you, Monsieur Briand, now that Germany enters the final phase of the Dawes agreement, to end a condition which is keeping alive the hatreds of a war which has been over for 10 years. You know, as well as I do, that this police force is not necessary to obtain the Dawes payments. If Germany should in the future violate its agreement, what could it do against the assembled might of France and Great Britain with its little army of 100,000 men?

The occupation is nothing more nor less than an irritation, and in your soul you agree with me about that.

Briand: All that is very true, but (remembering what Poincaré and the rest of the sabre-rattlers would think and do if he (Briand) accepted Mueller's view) it is impossible for me to discuss the question with you at all without the presence of our allies, Belgium and England.

Aside from that, the little get-together meeting was a charming affair, and a good time was had by all.

THE CARDINALS.

Our expectations of the Cardinals at this season are not justified by their record. We want them to flatten their opponents out now and win the pennant three weeks before the season ends.

The Cardinals have never been like that. If we will recall, they won the pennant in 1926 by vanquishing Pittsburgh in the little world series at the local park. Until that series was over it was not certain the Cardinals would win the pennant, just as it is not certain now they will win it.

Now must we forget the world series with the Yankees. The Cardinals had to win the last two games to become champions, and to do this they had to go into the enemy's country. It was a terrific test of their gameness. When they won they were applauded and admired as no other baseball team in the history of the game had been.

THE CARDINALS.

It was a terrific test of their gameness. When they won they were applauded and admired as no other baseball team in the history of the game had been.

Sept. 30, or thereabouts, the Cardinals play their last game of the present season. It will be played in New York. If they run true to form, that last game is very likely to be a little world series game.

The Cardinals are ahead of the Giants, but as McGraw has been pointing out for some time, the Giants chiefly meet in the end the weak Eastern teams.

They have been having a good time the past few days with the weakest of these. It is therefore not impossible that when the Cardinals go into New York for the last game the contest may involve the pennant.

If so, the Cardinals will win it. It is in supreme tests that they distinguish themselves. They are that kind of a team.

TWO KINDS OF STATE GOVERNMENT.

From a little farm in Dane County came Robert M. La Follette, to give Wisconsin the most enlightened and efficient government which any American state had enjoyed up to that time. From the sidewalks of New York's east side came Alfred E. Smith to confer a similar blessing on his State. Both remain models of what state governments should be. Both have received the overwhelming support of the voters.

It is enough to make us think. Why does not Missouri produce a governing group like those which assembled around La Follette at Madison, and around Smith at Albany? Before La Follette, Wisconsin was in the grip of a powerful and corrupt machine, supported by strong interests. New York, of course, is the headquarters of those forces which seek always in every state to control the government, and perpet it to their own selfish uses. These interests are not especially strong in Missouri. The press of the State is somewhat above the general average in vigilance, progressiveness and devotion to the public welfare. Yet Missouri continues to languish under feeble administrations like those of Hyde and Baker. The man or woman who can supply the solution of this mystery, and advance an effective program for ending it, will deserve to be preserved in marble in the rotunda of the Capitol at Jefferson City.

THE TROUBLE IN PHILADELPHIA.

Elsewhere on this page the Post-Dispatch publishes a symposium on conditions in Philadelphia as revealed by a recent grand jury report. Here is a city with a reputation for peace and order unusual among the great metropolises of America, yet it is being swept with a wave of vice, graft, crime and corruption. Its police force has been debauched, and it has nurtured a system of crime so vast and intricate as to be compared in its organization to Big Business. Several years ago Philadelphia, in an effort to preserve itself from the fate of Chicago, borrowed Gen. Smedley Butler from the Marine Corps to introduce the severest kind of military discipline into its law enforcement problem. Butler, famed as a soldier, failed at the task and went back to the marines.

His successors have failed, too. Philadelphia now realizes that she is in the grip of the same criminal elements that are operating in all large cities, namely, the big bootleggers and the riffraff that follow in their wake. "It so happens," says the Baltimore Evening Sun, "that it is Volsteadism which is responsible" for conditions in Philadelphia. And the New York Times, quoting Mr. Hoover's suggestion that only a searching investigation of fact can determine the method of curing the abuses under the dry laws, points to Philadelphia as a great laboratory which obviates the need of a fact-finding commission.

Some months ago the Post-Dispatch, discussing Chicago, made the point that prohibition is the root of the trouble there. It is only since prohibition that criminals have been able to obtain the sinews of war on a grand scale. The enormously profitable traffic in bootleg whisky and beer has at last put crime on a paying basis. Ex-porch climbers and safe blowers now have means of large and steady income and have, in turn, corrupted the police and enforcement agents. Rivalries between competing cliques of bootleggers are responsible for gang wars and the wholesale killings that have been almost a daily occurrence in our large cities. With money obtained from sale of contraband liquor, a criminal system unlike anything ever known in this country has been built up.

Philadelphia is only suffering from a disease which has attacked Chicago, New York, Cleveland, Detroit and St. Louis. They are all suffering the consequences of having turned a big industry over to the underworld.

REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN FINANCES.

The Republican National Committee, through Treasurer Nutt, reports contributions amounting to $560,029 for August, from 1539 persons. The donation range from $25,000 to $122. The total receipts up to Aug. 31 is $65,418 and expenditures $32,216. Several September subscriptions, not included in the August statement, are acknowledged.

The report, it is explained, is satisfactory to party leaders, as it is substantially the same as for the corresponding period in 1924, and is regarded as reasonable assurance that Mr. Hoover's campaign management will not be handicapped by lack of funds.

It hardly needs to be said that there was never any public anxiety on that score. The Republicans have plenty of money, and the impression prevails that, if solicited earnestly enough, they invariably respond. The objection heretofore has been, from the standpoint of public policy, that Republican campaign finances have been hedged about with secrecy. The present statement will, we believe, be received by the public as candid and correct, and, as such, a wholesome departure from previous practice.

The public has not recovered from the shocking disclosures of the 1920 campaign, dragged out of the slippery and reluctant Will Hays and the essentially dishonest methods employed in concealing the liquidation of the deficit left over from the monumental Harding-Coolidge majority. The Republican party has evidently been chastened by its unhappy experience. Certainly public sentiment has condemned the Hays system of reckless expenditure and post mortem collections.

NORTH DAKOTA TURNS THUMBS DOWN.

The seriousness of the farm revolt in the Republican Northwest apparently has not been exaggerated, if we are to judge by North Dakota. The Republican State Central Committee of that solidly Republican state refused, by the crushing vote of 19 to 9, to endorse the candidacy of Mr. Hoover. The ground given for this action was that Hoover was "a servant of the big interests and cared nothing for the farmers," as evidenced by his record of eight years in the Cabinet.

As a result of the vote, the party in the State has split into two factions, with the "Independents" supporting Hoover and the majority maintaining silence as to whom they will support.

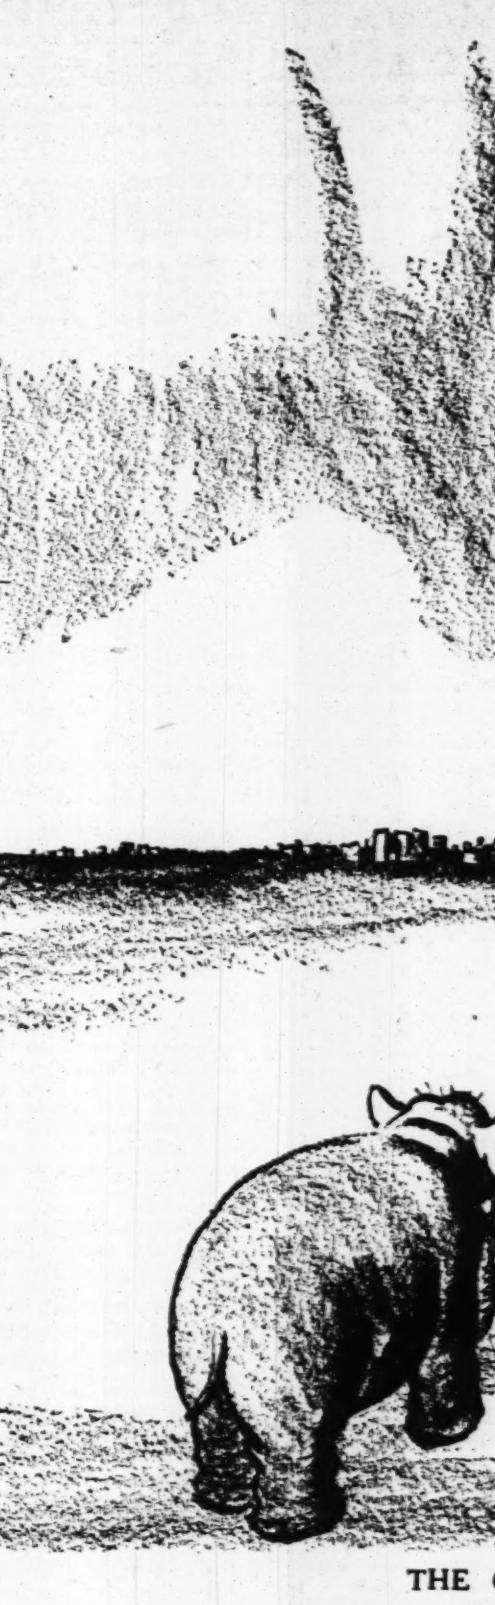

North Dakota's hostility to any candidate who is, in its opinion, tainted with the support of Eastern bankers, is not difficult to understand. Several years ago the farmers of the State, acting through the old Nonpartisan League, without waiting for relief from the outside, set out to relieve themselves. They took possession of the State government, and entered upon a program which included the establishment of a bank and the construction of elevators, warehouses and flour mills. They purposed to free themselves and their crops from the control of the bankers, the millers and the elevator owners.

State bonds were issued to pay for these improvements. What was the result? Banks and investment houses throughout the country refused to handle them. They did this, as one of them frankly admitted at the time, not because there was anything wrong with the bonds, but because the project, if successful, would interfere with the bankers' immemorial rakeoff. Consequently, they did everything possible to wreck the program.

The farmers of North Dakota believe that Mr. Hoover represents those same interests. Naturally, they cannot see how his election would benefit them. Examining his promises in their behalf, they ask what he has done during the eight years that he has been one of the President's most trusted advisers. Their attitude toward him may or may not be just to him, but the fact that they have such an attitude, and that they have their reasons for it, can hardly be denied. It is something else to worry his campaign managers.

I watched her climb the rugged cliff. I prayed that I might scream; I prayed for strength with which to hold her. Her mad, appalling scheme.

Most of the heavyweight aspirants seem to be any of the others, either in or out of the ring.

If the insurance companies hired efficiency experts, what would happen to the small type in the insurance policy?

Even if the cigarettes are good for voice, we do not suppose that little Bill stays around the house while he is making.

We have noticed, too, that when an amateur tells of his diet, none of the others rank very high in the vitamins list.

We are not saying that the smoking of the long-winded variety are not popular, but we note that the chair always "contains" a motion to adjourn.

Sometimes we wonder if the large, bold individual has to carry the case around when he wants to smoke in another room when he is at home.

HAFIZ, THE TONGUE OF THE HIDDEN. By Clarence K. Streit. (Viking Press.)

101 quatrains of a pattern made famous by Fitzgerald, Clarence K. Streit has undertaken here "to transmute the spirit" of Hafiz into English, and the hope is expressed by the publisher that the fourteenth century Persian poet may now "win a popularity that Omar Khayyam has long held undisputed."

The hope is based, we doubt, upon the fact that the philosophy of Hafiz, as expressed in Mr. Streit's selections, differs not at all from that of Omar as set forth in "The Rubaiyat." Human destiny, according to this Persian contemporary of Dante, is a complete washout. We don't know where we're going and we don't know where we came from, says Hafiz, but since we're undeniably on our way we might as well make a night of it in hoozing and wenching. The terms used are more esthetic and tuneful, but the apparent meaning is practical that, although there have been those, both in Persia and elsewhere, who have read a highly spiritual significance into the text, we learn that Hafiz lived in a time when the orthodox Mohammedan prohibitionists were making life hard for thirsty advocates of personal liberty; and this fact, together with the philosophy expressed, might seem at first glance to favor the publisher's rosy hope for popularity.

But the temper of the world has changed greatly since Fitzgerald's "Rubaiyat" was discovered. At that time there was abroad a growing mood of despair due to the apparent triumph of iconoclastic science over the good old religion. Many had only recently begun to wonder if, after all, the universe might not be a friendless place for man. With the slipping of the ancient anchor in faith, the hedonist philosophy seemed tempting, but as yet the old-time moral restraints were strong. Doubters were thus between the devil and the deep sea, and in that predicament it was pleasant to flit intellectually with hedonism, so charmingly expressed. Many a callow sentimental, who had never crooked an elbow or chased a dodging lamp-post at 3 a.m., could chorle in a fit of pleasurable melancholy all about the naughty delights of the "grape" and "thou," and feel himself almost a regular hellion.

But times have changed, and the old restraints have yielded to the strain, and the "new generation" is apparently not greatly agitated about anchors. Nowadays people care a good deal more "practical" and the moment looms so huge that the "whence" and "whither" question bothers little. Thirsty folks do not go on a sentimental spree with Omar and Hafiz. They make

STONE DUST. By Frank Ernest Hill. (Longmans, Green & Co.)

This is the first volume of verse by Frank Ernest Hill who, with Joseph A. Boyle, has produced "The Winged Horse, the Story of Poets and Their Poetry," which appeared some months ago.

Hill is a poet worthy of attention, and he seems especially interesting in his aviation poems, which are said to be the first thus far written by one who has flown. Here are two of them:

Upper Air.
High, pale, imperial places of slow cloud and windless wells of sunlit silence—Sense

Of some aware, half-scornful Permanence.

Past which we flow like water that is loud

A moment on the granite. Nothing here

Beats with the pulse that beat in us below;

That was a flame; this is the soul of snow

Immolated in moveless atmosphere.

Yet we shall brood upon this haunt of wings

When love like perfume washed away in rain,

Dies on the years. Still we shall come again.

Seeking the clouds as we have sought the sea.

Asking the peace of those immortal things

That will not mix with our mortality.

Earth Will Stay the Same.
The earth will stay the same for all our flying;

We shall come back to earth when we are done

And take gray streets again for air and sun.

Give up the truth of space for dust and lying.

A girl's clear look will find us in a crowd,

The western moon will die in soundless dawn,

Shall live briefly then with what is gone,

Riding our seas of light and wind and cloud.

But mostly we shall live with earth. Our hands

Shall keep her rhythm, eyes and ears shall know

Her shafts of steel, the singing of her cars.

As far from rain-washed forests, sea-washed sands,

Dreams of a house upon a sleeper grow

Who made his bed for years beneath the stars.

MUSHROOMS COMBINE NICELY WITH OYSTERS AND FISH
Canned Mushrooms Are Convenient When Company Arrives Unexpectedly.

Mushrooms are an enticing addition to fish and oyster dishes. As September ushers in the oyster season why not try this recipe for a delectable dish which may be prepared in a chafing dish.

Drain one can of mushrooms, place them in a sauce pan and cook until a golden color. Add a pint of oysters and cook five minutes. Pour in a pint of boiling cream. Season with salt and pepper.

This recipe can be prepared in a chafing dish.

Fish and Mushrooms

Parboil the fish with a small amount of white wine, butter, pepper and salt. Heat the contents of a tin of mushrooms mixed with part of the juice resulting from the cooking of the fish; spread over a buttered plate part of this sauce, on which arrange the fish, and then cover with the remainder of the sauce, over which grate cheese, sprinkle bread crumbs, and a small quantity of heated butter. Brown in a hot oven.

This recipe can be applied to all kinds of fish, such as flounders, bass, blue fish, weak fish, etc.

CUCUMBER PICKLES OF EVERY VARIETY

Follow These Directions and Have a Supply of Home-Made Relishes.

The pickle season is at its best during the month of September.
Those housewives who are accustomed to make their winter supply of relishes will find these several recipes for cucumber pickles very excellent.

DILL PICKLES.

Take one hundred medium sized cucumbers, ten quarts of water, two cups salt, one quart of vinegar, four quarts of water, one-half cup salt, cherry leaves and dill.

Wash cucumbers. Boil together 10 quarts water, two cups salt and one quart vinegar for 10 minutes and let stand over night. Make a brine of four quarts of water and one-half cup salt. In this soak cucumbers one hour; then drain cucumbers and pack tight in layers in jars or crocks between cherry leaves and dill. Cover with boiled brine and seal.

Ripe Cucumber Pickles.

Take six large ripe cucumbers, one gallon water, one-fourth cup salt, one quart white vinegar, three cups water, one and one-half cups sugar, two packages seeded raisins, 24 whole cloves, six sticks of three and one-half inch cinnamon and three small onions.

Remove thin paring from cucumbers and also remove seeds.
Soak for one hour in a brine made with salt and water. At the end of the hour bring to the boiling point and let boil for 10 minutes; drain. Bring other ingredients to boiling point, having the seasonings tied together in a little
bag. Add the drained cucumbers and boil for 45 minutes or until soft. Pack in sterilized jars cover with boiling syrup and seal at once.

OIL PICKLES.

Take one hundred small cucumbers, one quart small onions, one cup olive oil, one ounce celery seeds, two quarts vinegar, one-fourth pound ground mustard, one-fourth pound white mustard seed and one tablespoon black pepper.

Cut cucumbers and onions in slices. Put into an earthen dish in layers with salt between. Put a heavy weight above and let stand over night. Drain off the liquid.
Mix seasonings with oil, then gradually stir in vinegar; pour all over pickles, mix well and store in cans, sealed as in canning.

Cucumber Mustard Pickle.

One gallon cold white vinegar, one cup salt, two cups sugar, one cup ground mustard.

Soak small cucumbers in cold water to harden the vegetables.
Mix dry ingredients and add vinegar gradually to dissolve mustard.
Pour mixture over as many cucumbers as will cover. Add fresh cucumbers from day to day until the vessel is full. Cover vessel with plate and weight down. The pickles will be ready for use in several weeks' time.

TWO RECIPES FOR MAKING PIE WITH GREEN TOMATOES

Many Delicious Cooked Dishes
Made With Unripe or Green Tomatoes.

Green tomatoes make delicious pies and tarts. As the green tomato season is now upon us these recipes for green tomato pie should be acceptable.

Take two cups of green tomatoes
after they have been chopped fine and the water squeezed out. Add six apples chopped fine, two cups sugar, one-half cup of vinegar, one-half cup of molasses, one cup of raisins, spices to taste. Cook all together slowly and when done add a little salt and a spoonful of flour, which has been made smooth in a little water. Bake with two crusts
the same as you would mince pie.
If filling is packed in a jar it will keep for several days.

Recipe No. 2.

Slice green tomatoes into a tin lined with pastry. Sprinkle with the juice of one-half lemon and about three-quarter cup sugar and a few grains of salt. Dot with one tablespoon butter. Cover with pastry and cook in a rather quick oven.

LIMA BEAN CASSEROLE DISH

Though This is the Lima Season,
Canned Limas May Be Used.

Purchase a quarter peck of limas, a bunch of small carrots and four young scallions. Shell the limas, wash and scrape the carrots and cut them lengthwise in eighths. Cut the tops from the scallions. Place in a casserole with half a teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper and one and a half cupfuls of milk.

Bake covered in a hot oven—
400 degrees F.—for 10 minutes and then lower the heat—325 degrees F.—for 35 minutes. About five minutes before the dish is finished add two tablespoonsfuls of seeds.

CORN AND PIMENTO TOAST

This dish is particularly appetizing for breakfast.

Melt two tablespoons of butter in a heavy frying pan, add three cups cooked, cold corn cut from the cob, or canned corn if desired, one teaspoon of minced onion, and one pimento cut in small pieces. Stir over a slow fire for five minutes or until the onion begins to turn a faint brown.

Sprinkle in three tablespoons of flour and then add one and one-half cups of milk. Season to taste with salt and pepper and cook until the mixture is thickened and boiling. Pour over toast and serve very hot.

Sandwich Suggestions.

Use two kinds of bread, white and rye or graham. Bread should be one day old.

ATTRACTIVE IDEAS FOR SERVING FRUIT

The End of the Fruit Season Suggests These Combinations.

Peel, core and quarter six pears. Place in a saucepan with one-half cup of sugar and two tablespoons of water. Allow to stew while you prepare your favorite pie crust. Line pie pan with crust, pour in pears, cover with top crust and bake in a brick oven (400 degrees) until crust is brown.

Surprise Dessert.

Cut slices of angel cake about one-half inch thick and arrange for individual service on attractive plates. Cover each slice of cake with whipped cream sweetened and flavored with one or two drops of almond extract. Place one-half peach with the rounded side up in the center of each slice of cake. This resembles a poached egg.

Peach Dessert.

Wash, pare and crush the soft peaches, add the sugar and put into glass bowl. Pare the peaches, cut into halves and place on top of the crushed peaches, stone side up; sprinkle with a little sugar. Cut the marshmallows into pieces with scissors and sprinkle over the top. Serve ice cold.

Peach Butter.

The recipe is very simple one and a very good one for peach butter.

Peel and slice the peaches and weigh out 10 pounds. Cook about two hours and add six pounds of granulated sugar.

Cook another hour, or until thick, stirring frequently to keep from sticking.

Some fancier cooks, more inclined to experiment, use this for the basic recipe and add two or three oranges, one or two lemon put through the meat grinder and a pound of seeded raisins.

A pound of almonds, blanched and cut in halves, is added after the mixture is taken from the stove.

Pear Dessert.

Parboil and core firm ripe pears cut into halves. Hollow out the pear, leaving a rim a half-inch thick and deep. Have ready some chocolate ice cream scooped in a small cone. Fill the hollowed pears and serve at once.

Grape Dessert.

Soften two tablespoonsfuls of gelatin in cold water. Add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar to one pint of grape juice (fresh), add the juice of two lemons, strain and add the gelatin. Set the basin containing the mixture into a dish of crushed ice, stir until it thickens, then add the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs. Fill chilled glasses two-thirds full and pile sweetened whipped cream on top.

CLEVER HOUSEWIVES COOK

POTATOES IN VARIOUS WAYS

Here Are Two Tasty Recipes for Preparing Them With Meat.

At this season of the year it is very difficult to prepare potatoes so that they are tasty. Here are two favorite recipes:

Scalloped Ham and Potatoes.

Parboil a medium-sized slice of ham. Cut into required number of portions. Cover bottom of baking dish with a layer of thinly sliced raw potatoes and sprinkle with flour, salt, pepper and butter. Arrange the pieces of ham on top of this and spread with prepared mustard. Fill the dish with the remainder of the sliced potatoes. Sprinkle with bits of butter, flour, salt, pepper and grated cheese. Pour sweet milk in baking dish to fill within half an inch of top. Bake about one hour.

Baked Ham and Potatoes.

Place a layer of sliced tomatoes in a baking dish, then a layer of sliced meat and then a layer of sliced boiled potatoes. Dredge each layer with sifted flour, pepper and salt. Repeat until the dish is nearly full. Then put in an extra layer of tomato and cover with bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven. A few mushrooms or oysters may be added to give flavor.

ENTICING CRABMEAT DISH

Its Delicious Taste and Beautiful Appearance Recommend It.

Chop fine cucumber to fill a cup. Dissolve one package gelatin in one cup boiling water and add two tablespoons' vinegar in which a garlic clove has stood for 30 hours. When gelatin begins to congeal, add cucumber and two drops of green coloring. Pour into individual moulds, using sause dishes with wine glass inverted.

When ready to serve, turn out on beds of water cress and put on the center of each mould, shredded crabmeat which has been mixed with mayonnaise. Serve with a generous spoonful of mayonnaise on top of crabmeat and sprinkle with paprika.

Tan and Freckle Lotion.

One cupful of sour milk, one tea-spoonful of horseradish scraped into fine threads and left standing in the sour milk for six hours before using is excellent for tan and freckles.

Tips on making soufflés

To my mind, the soufflé is an ideal dish for warm evenings. It's dainty, appetizing, quickly made, and nutritious. And it's a splendid way to use up left-overs.

Eggs and white beaten separately until very light and combined with a thick white sauce makes the customary foundation for soufflés. Almost any left-overs may be added to the white sauce for variation. My favorites are cheese, salmon, deviled ham and canned spinach.

If the base of a soufflé is sweetened, a delicious dessert may be made by adding such flavoring as mocha, vanilla or macaroon. Another soufflé that I'm sure you'll like is made with dried prunes, diced, stewed and drained before combining with the other ingredients.

I hope you're finding the recipes in these columns useful. I know they are entirely practical for each one is tested in my kitchen. Mary Hale Martin, Cooking Correspondent, Libby, McNeill & Libby, Dept. P-7, Welfare Bldg., Chicago.

Piquant new flavor for three familiar dishes

WOMEN are really the more adventurous sex—in the realm of cookery, at least. Most men would probably go on ordering steak and potatoes and pie to the end of time. But women crave the spice of novelty even in these familiar dishes.

Here are three such dishes—macaroni, spinach, and tongue, old friends that the men of the family will welcome. Each is given new interest by some added flavor. Their popularity depends, however, not alone on the recipes but also on the ingredients used. You'll notice I've specified certain ones that I know to be unusually fine flavor.

For instance there's a catchup that has all the concentrated flavor of vine-ripened tomatoes—Libby's Catchup. Spinach—long-leaved, delicate, specially grown for Libby, Libby's Sauerkrat Juice, mild yet tangy—and tender Lunch Tongue, packed in the world's meat center.

If your grocer does not carry Libby Foods, please send us his name and address.

Novel "trimmings" for green beans

You know how good green beans taste cooked with a bit of bacon? Well, here is a way to give them an intriguing, spicy flavor that I like even better. It's very easy—you just mix them with Libby's Meat-wich Spread. This spread is made of choice meats delicately spiced.

ROAST VEAL WITH LEMON DRESSING

It is Considered Desirable to Add Some Acid Flavor to Veal.

In shopping for this week's menus you will find it most economical to buy a piece of the thick part of the roast of veal for the next day. Have the butcher bone the meat and tie it firmly in a long roll. In this way it is easy to slice, either hot or cold.

A piece weighing about six pounds will be most economical for the average-sized family, as it will allow for cold sliced meat another day. Put the meat in a roasting pan, and if it is lean, brush it with bacon fat or meat drippings, sprinkle with flour, salt and pepper. Cover the pan and roast in a very hot oven for the first 20 minutes, then reduce the heat to a moderate over or to 350 degrees and continue cooking, allowing one-half hour for each pound of meat.

Some acid flavor is usually desirable with veal, and you will find the lemon dressing, chosen for this week, delicious in flavor and offering a change from the usual poultry-seasoned stuffings.

I have chosen to cook this dressing on the outside of the meat, rather than to use it as a stuffing.

If you are not accustomed to cooking it in this way, I think you will find the change a very agreeable one.

Three-quarters of an hour before the meat is done, spread it with a thick layer of lemon dressing. To make this, break enough stale bread into pieces to make three cupsful, sauté with boiling water, then squeeze dry in a piece of cheese cloth or an old napkin. Add the grated rind and the juice of one lemon, three tablespoons of minced parsley, one scant teaspoon minced onion, one teaspoon salt, and pepper to season. Add one egg and mix until thoroughly blended.

When the dressing is spread over the top of the meat in this way it cooks with a brown coating and can be sliced down with the meat, making a drier dressing than when put inside the meat and cooked the usual way.

Delicious Baked Apples.

Baked apples are one of the most wholesome of breakfast or dessert fruits, yet many people do not know how to bake them properly. I have found that one of the best methods is to core the apples, put them in a deep baking dish, fill the centers with sugar, and the bottom of the pan with water.

Cover the pan, bake in a moderate oven for twenty-five minutes, then uncover, sprinkle with sugar and finish cooking. The apples will have a glazed appearance and will be tender throughout.

Nourish School Children.

School children must have foods of high caloric value in order to supply the supply of energy constantly expended in study and play. They must have readily digestible foods in order not to overtax their delicate digestive systems. Tapioca is a happy solution to the problem of wholesome, digestible food that children really like.

VEGETABLES ARE THE BASIS OF MANY SKIN BEAUTIFIERS

Cucumbers Have an Historical Reputation As An Aid to Beauty.

Mme. Pompadour, celebrated in song and story as having one of the finest skins of her day, knew the value of cucumber juice as a beautifier.

Later, the beautiful ladies found that a mixture of cucumber juice and sour cream was even more effective. They made this cream by slicing a few fresh cucumbers and letting them stand for a day in a little thickened cream. The resultant mixture was a soothing cream that removed sunburn and tan and left the skin delightfully smooth.

The cream should be made fresh every few days as it is more effective when newly mixed.

A Thought for the Day.

Drain boiled vegetables as soon as they are tender. They become soggy if they are allowed to stand undrained after cooking. The water drained off may be saved for soup stock. Most vegetables should be cooked in a small amount of water because part of the mineral salts dissolves in the water and is lost if the water is thrown away. Cook whole when possible.

To Remove Fruit Stains.

Pour boiling water through the stain before wetting the linen with soapy water.

Use a Variety of Vinegars.

Use tarragon vinegar in place of

and somewhat different flavor.

To Make Chicken Mousse.

If you have no chicken broth or hand for chicken mousse, use a bouillon cube dissolved in one cup of boiling water.

$1,000.00 in PRIZES

Prizes given for best letters telling, "Why I buy cake instead of baking it at home." Contest starts September 7. Ends December 1

Here are the Prizes

SECOND PRIZE	—	—	—	—	—	300.00
THIRD PRIZE	—	—	—	—	—	100.00

And 10 prizes of $10.00 each

By ALICE ADAMS PROCTOR

I HAVE just been authorized by the Continental Baking Company to conduct one of the most unusual contests ever held for women.

A contest that offers every woman in the country a chance to win $500.00. It is an opportunity I am sure no intelligent person will want to overlook.

There's no work to do. No tedious drudgery. Just write me a letter telling why you buy cake rather than bake it at home.

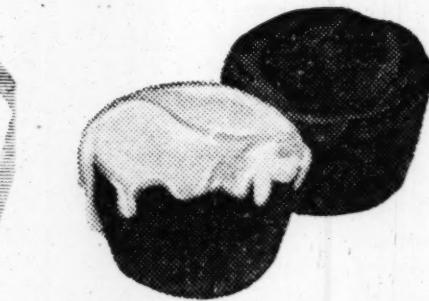

Perhaps you may want to write about why you bought your first cake. How you served it for special occasions. Why you liked it. Or the comments of your family or friends.

But please don't limit yourself. Your own originality may win you a generous prize. Writing ability will not be a factor. Just write a short letter in your own words telling about your experiences.

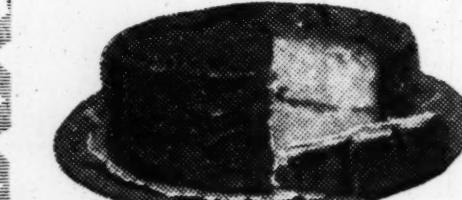

Get the rules at your grocer's

Don't think this contest is confined to long-time users of Hostess Cake. Even though you never heard of these delicious cakes until today you have an equal chance with the others.

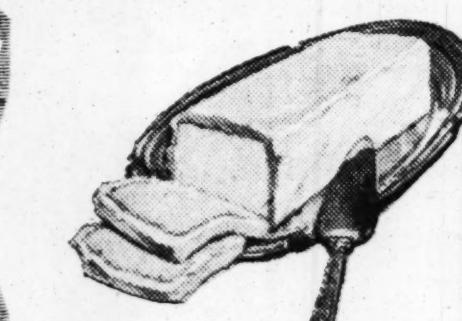

Just go to your grocer's and ask him about the contest. He will give you the simple rules I have formulated. They are easy to follow. But please read them carefully.

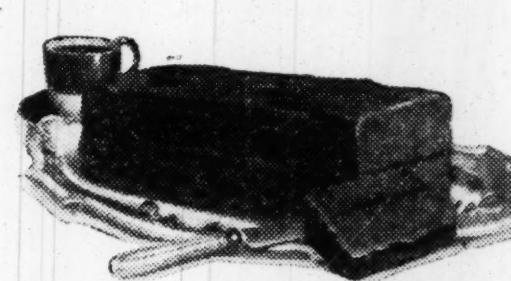

MAKE YOUR MOUTH WATER?
These cup cakes are just as delicate and good as they look too. Your choice of chocolate or vanilla icing. And the cost is very low. Only five cents for two.

THIS CHOCOLATE LAYER CAKE
will do credit to any party. It is frosted beautifully. And so delicious your family will be certain you baked it.

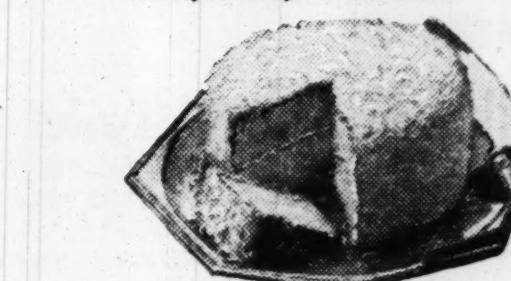

HERE'S THE FAMOUS SILVER
BAR. It is a splendid all-around cake. You'll find the vanilla icing delicious. You can serve this cake with confidence.

EVERYONE LIKES THIS CAKE!
They like the tempting bitter sweet chocolate icing . . . the way the taste lingers on. You can serve this cake at a dinner or a party. Ask for Devil's Food Bar.

A NEW TREAT FOR YOUR FAMI-LY . . . Pineapple Layer Cake . . . Two layers of cake filled and iced with luscious fresh pineapple fruit frosting.
It is different from any cake you've ever tried before. Truly a delicious treat.

"DELICIOUS!" YOU'LL SAY once you've tasted this Hostess Cocnut Layer cake. It is plentifully covered with fresh, domestic shred cocnut. I know you'll like it. Let your family judge it too!

If you wish, try one of the Hostess Cakes illustrated at the left. Whichever you select will delight you, I'm sure. They are baked in kitchens as sunny and immaculate as your own. They are baked by talented pastry cooks.

I know myself the ingredients they use. The carefully selected eggs. The fresh sweet shortenings. The soft pastry flour. The pure cane sugar. All tested in our Hostess kitchens.

Just be sure to send your letter before December 1. I will announce the winners on December 15. If you are fortunate enough to be among them your prize money will come to you just in time for Christmas.

Don't forget—your grocer has all the particulars. Drop in tomorrow and ask him about them. It may mean $500.00 to you! Continental Baking Company, 285 Madison Avenue, New York.

CAULFIELD STANDS ON G. O. P. DRY PLANK

Nominee for Governor Explains Views in Reply to W. C. T. U. Query.

Henry S. Caulfield, Republican candidate for Governor, has replied to the letter of Mrs. Fannie L. Taylor, president of the Kansas City Woman's Christian Temperance Union, who wrote asking him whether he stood on the Republican national platform for prohibition enforcement. He wrote:

"I am glad to assure you that in my campaign I am going to stand squarely upon the national Republican party platform."

"May I say to you that during my campaign for the nomination I pledged myself, if elected, to vigorously enforce all laws to the fullest extent of my power as Governor. As a guarantee of my sincerity I point to my record as Excise Commissioner of St. Louis under Gov. Hadley, as Judge of the Court of Appeals and as City Commissioner."

Caulfield, in commenting on his letter to Mrs. Taylor, said she did not ask him to express his personal views on prohibition, but only his attitude toward the enforcement plank of the party platform. His personal views on the question of prohibition, Caulfield said, were expressed by him in a statement issued Jan. 31, in which he said:

"Prohibition is not going to be an issue in my campaign. The Governor's duty is only to do with the enforcement of the laws as they exist. I have never considered prohibition the best means to obtain temperance. I have thought that strict regulation, accompanied by education toward temperance, combined with local option, was the best remedy for the ills of intemperance."

"All my experience and training have given to me a reverence for law, without which reverence this nation cannot continue to exist. I have a record for law enforcement of which I am proud."

Mrs. Taylor sent a similar letter of inquiry to Francis M. Wilson, Democratic candidate for Governor. She said today, according to a dispatch from Kansas City, that she had received no reply from Wilson. "I can understand," she said, "how people sometimes hate to declare themselves on paper, but I believe a candidate should not be afraid to take a stand I am still hoping to hear from Mr. Wilson."

SIX ADDRESSES
CAMPAIGN TOUR

Twenty, possibly 20 or more, are estimated as the number of addresses he will make before Nov. 6. The smaller figure is based on the fact that three speeches will be delivered during the first week of his trip and on the theory that this average at least will be adhered to for six weeks. But if the nominee runs true to form, he will likely speed up his program later in the campaign and probably make a speech a day, thereby running the total close to 25.

October probably will find the nominee making another swing, but reserving the East, including his native city of New York, for the final punch of the campaign. Agriculture, water power and prohibition are the chief subjects the nominee is expected to discuss.

The itinerary of this first trip, while listing only six formal addresses, calls for stops in many cities where the Governor will hold informal receptions from the platform of his special car. No announcement as to the places to be visited on the second and third tours has yet been made.

The itinerary of the first tour follows:

Sept. 16—Leave New York.
Sept. 17—Arrive Chicago.
Sept. 18—Arrive Omaha; speech scheduled.

Sept. 19—Leave Omaha.

Sept. 20—Arrive Oklahoma City; speech scheduled.

Sept. 21—Leave Oklahoma City; arrive Newton and Dodge City, Kan.

Sept. 22—Arrive La Junta, Colo.; and Denver; speech scheduled at Denver.

Sept. 23—Arrive Cheyenne, Wyo.

Sept. 24—Arrive Billings; Butte and Helena, Mont.; visit to State Fair at Helena and speech in Helena at night.

Sept. 25—Enroute from Butte through Montana to North Dakota.

Sept. 26—Arrive Bismarck and Fargo, N. D.; one hour stops.

Sept. 27—Arrive St. Paul and Minneapolis; speech at Minneapolis.

Sept. 28—Enroute from Minneapolis to Milwaukee.

Sept. 29—Speech at Milwaukee.

Sept. 30—Enroute from Milwaukee to Rochester, N. Y.

Oct. 1—Arrive Rochester.

For all speeches there will be a national radio hookup.

One of the tentative schedules for the Democratic standard bearer after his visit to Rochester calls for him to swing into the Middle West, one or two of the border states and into the solid South.

All heads in party councils seem to agree that he should concentrate on Eastern states during the last stages of the campaign, and it is regarded as certain that he will wind up his speech-making the Saturday night before election at Madison Square Garden in New York.

DONOVAN TO RETAIN STATE CHAIRMANSHIP

international committeeman he will retain, temporarily at least, the office of chairman of the State Committee, of which he has been a member continuously since 1912 and intermittently for more than 30 years, having thrice served as its chairman.

After his selection as national committeeman, Donovan at Springfield intimated that he might relinquish the post, however, after the November election, having expressed a desire to retire from politics and take a rest. In such an event the Democrats would be faced with the task of picking a new head for the second time in almost as few months.

Donovan has long been identified with downstate Democratic politics and this fact alone was partly responsible for his selection. His only opponent was Michael Igoe of Chicago, Democratic minority leader in the House of Representatives, but the State Committee decided on the choice of a downstate man.

PLOT TO SMUGGLE SOUTH AMERICANS INTO U. S. BARED

Scheme Exposed by Inquiry Into Deaths of Stowaways by Fumigation on Steamer.

$300 PAID FOR EACH MAN BROUGHT IN

Restaurant Owner in Rio de Janeiro Said to Have Been 'Go Between' in Negotiating With Ship Crews

BALTIMORE, Sept. 7.—Testimony tending to show that an international smuggling ring to ship natives of South America into this country existed in the Southern continent was introduced yesterday at the hearing of four seamen charged with being implicated in a plot to bring 16 stowaways in the steamship Steel Inventor, and the death of seven of them in fumigation of the ship. The hearings are being held before United States Commissioner Supplee.

The witnesses were Charles Clark, immigration inspector, and survivors of the fatal fumigation of the ship's hold on arrival here.

Frank said three of the accused men had admitted to him attempting to smuggle the men into the country. The fourth man, Edmund Cunino, he said, denied all knowledge of the scheme, although a stowaway identified him as one of the men aiding them.

A restaurant owner in Rio de Janeiro, according to testimony of the stowaways, was the "go between" in the negotiations between members of the ship's crew and the natives. They all paid into a general fund for food on the trip, they testified, and were to deliver $300 each to the seamen on arrival in this country.

Manuel Calafata, one of the witnesses, said many natives had been brought into the United States in the same manner.

Jose Dos Santos, another of the surviving stowaways, failed to corroborate the prosecution's contention that one or more of the four men under charges cut a canvas ventilator cover to allow air to blow in to the men in the hold, when he said he might have torn it in attempting to fight his way to freedom. He was the first of the survivors to break through to the deck, and said that it was also he who lowered the rope to his companions seeking their escape.

The hearing is expected to be completed today.

LINDBERGH TYPIFIES GOOD WILL

Main Figure in Symbolic Window in Springfield (Mass.) Church.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 7.

—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Abraham Lincoln will have windows to themselves, according to the revised plan for the symbolic window which is planned at Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church. Lindbergh, flying in his "Spirit of St. Louis" to Paris, will be the cut-standing figure in the "good will" window to be placed in the east transept of the church. Lincoln will be the main figure in the "democracy" window.

The Rev. Dr. Fred Winslow Adams, minister of the church, who conceived the idea of these windows, announced that in the medallion of the "good will" window will be pictured the recent signing of the Kellogg treaty at Paris. In the medallion of the "democracy" window will be shown the Mayflower under full sail.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Wild speculation for the advance in today's stock market carried total sales to 4,782,199 shares, the third largest in history. Extreme gains of 2 to nearly 20 points were paraded by the usual weekend profit-taking, but at least 50 issues sold at record high prices.

The unexpectedly small increase of $45,000,000 in Federal Reserve brokers' loans, announced after the close yesterday, released a flood of buying orders which nearly swamped the trading facilities of the exchange. The ticker fell 30 minutes behind the market before midday and never caught up. While powerful pools whirled their fate up at a dizzy pace, the public jumped into the market in ever-increasing numbers.

Call money held steady at 74 per cent, and banks called more than $20,000,000 in loans, but new funds were quickly forthcoming and commercial paper was coming to take their place. Time held steady. Sterling exchange dropped to a new low level for the year, and Wall street revised statistics of an early return flow of gold from Europe.

Talk of Good Fall Business. Price movements bore little relation to the day's news although market letters and flashes of the leading commission houses called attention to the excellent prospects for fall business and repeated many of the dividend and merger rumors in circulation throughout the financial district. One of the most significant developments of the day was the monthly steel ingot production report of the American Iron & Steel Institute, showing that last month's output had exceeded 4,000,000 tons for the first August in history. Automobile production in August also set a new high record.

Montgomery-Ward was the sensational feature in today's market, soaring 15 1/2 points to 242, partly at the expense of a harassed short interest, and then dipping to 234 1/4. The year's low is 117. Ross's buck ran up 8 points to 154. L. S. Steel continued to attain a new peak for the year at 155 1/8 but closed a point lower for a net gain of about 3 points.

Tidewater Oil in Big Volume.

Nearly a quarter of a million shares of Tidewater-Associated Oil changed hands, the stock touching a new high at 25 on buying influenced by reports of an early increase in California gasoline prices. Briggs Manufacturing crept 49 to a new high on a tremendous turnover, with the demand stimulated by reports of large orders from Chrysler and other leading manufacturers.

New high records for the year or longer also were established by such widely diversified issues as American Safety Razor, Associate Dry Goods, Brunswick-Balke-Collender, Chrysler, Commercial Investment Trust, Central Steel, Electric Auto Lite, Fox Film, "A" Gold Dust, International Nickel, Motor Products Corporation, Puritan Baking, Rossia Insurance, Sweets Co. of America and Timken Roller Bearing.

Commodity Prices Steady. Except for a moderate advance in the Missouri Pacific issues, the rails took little part in the day's advance. This was probably due to the disappointing freight traffic report, which was attributed to the delayed crop movement caused by low commodity prices.

Commodity prices moved within extremely narrow and irregular limits. Wheat and cotton closed practically unchanged. Coffee quotations were slightly firmer and the raw sugar futures market was easier.

Sterling cables sagged to $4.85 1/4 for the first time this year. Other foreign exchanges showed only nominal fluctuations.

Continental and Illinois Merchants' Banks O K Mergers.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Merger of the Continental National Bank and Trust Co. and the Illinois Merchants' Trust Co., described in La Salle street as a billion-dollar combination, was approved today by directors of the two banks in separate meetings.

Gold Goods Market. NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Commodity day was in most active demand, carded gray goods for converting purposes, and in some of the combed goods. Moderate buying in some of the combed goods was noted on printed lines and some of the staple domestics. Raw silk and rayon were in moderate demand, the chief market interest centering on the opening of a new exchange for future trading in rayon. Sales of raw silk and rayon were reported to be up 10 per cent over the two months last year.

Demand for most steel products in the Pittsburgh area was reported to be up 10 per cent, failing to show seasonal

CAMPAIGN IN SOUTH LIVELIEST FOR YEARS

Republicans as Well as Democrats Making Active Canvass.

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 7.—For the first time in years the South as a whole has become a battleground in the presidential campaign.

The most vigorous effort since reconstruction days is being made by Democratic party leaders to induce voters to go to the polls in November in support of Gov. Smith for president.

Equal endeavor has been put forth by those favoring the Republican nominees. In states which usually witness little or no campaign for the Republican ticket this year Hoover and Curtis clubs have been organized along State and county lines.

In some states, self-styled "anti-Smith Democrats," many of whom are opposed to Smith's stand on prohibition, have withdrawn their support from the national ticket and announced their intention to seek the election of a dry candidate for President, irrespective of party lines. Some among this group openly have aligned themselves with Republican forces. Others, however, have emphasized that while they are working for the election of Hoover, they will vote for dry Democratic congressional and state candidates.

Party Rule Invoked.

In South Carolina a party rule has been invoked which requires voters in the State primary to take an oath to support all party nominees, state or national, in the general election. This rule, known as Rule 32, became famous in the South this year as a result of an unsuccessful effort in the State convention to obtain its repeal. Later a minority who did not want to vote for Gov. Smith, unsuccessfully tried to get the State Committee to abrogate it.

Democratic Fight for Georgia.

A militant Democratic party organization in Georgia has been under the chairmanship of John R. Slater, Mayor of Douglas. Organizations have been perfected in each county and a campaign has got under way for Smith and Robinson. The women are co-operating under the leadership of Mrs. Edgar Alexander, National Committee-Woman.

G. E. Maddox, State Chairman, has said that there was a party rule in Georgia which required all candidates to pledge their support of the national ticket.

In the fifth Georgia Congressional District, of which Atlanta is a part, W. D. Upshaw is opposing Representative L. J. Steele for the Democratic nomination. Upshaw has declared his opposition to Gov. Smith and has conducted a vigorous speaking campaign.

A warning was sounded in Arkansas, the home State of the Democratic vice presidential nominee, that Democrats who bolt the ticket this year in the general election will be barred from the next primary under party rules. In some counties the challenging of voters in the primary who failed to pledge support to the standard bearers was threatened, but J. S. Utley, State chairman, said after the primary that few voters were challenged.

SAYS NORTHWEST IS SMITH'S

Ex-Senator Hansbrough Confident of Democratic Success.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Henry Clay Hansbrough, former Republican Senator from North Dakota, and now chairman of the Smith Independent League in the Northwest, told party leaders at Democratic national headquarters yesterday that Gov. Smith will carry North and South Dakota, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Montana, with their bloc of 39 electoral votes.

"I'm more confident that Smith will carry the Northwest," he said, "than I was when Wilson ran. The farmers are out for him because of his promised farm relief. They regard him as a man of action."

TRUE LIFE STORY OF THE PRINCE OF WALES

By Walter and Leonard Townsend

INSTALLMENT XVI.

H. R. H. THE MAN. HE Prince of Wales has always been interested in aeronautics. In 1912 he took up flying in earnest, not as a pleasure, but as the quickest method of getting about from place to place in the fulfillment of his duties. In March, 1918, he visited, with his brother (a qualified pilot), the Handley-Page works at Cricklewood. The two brothers were taking aviation instructions. Edward desired only to gain a little experience in flying so that he would not be at a loss when associating with Air Force men to discuss intelligently problems of aviation. Unlike his brother, his heart was more with the army than in the thrills and adventures of the newest branch of the service.

At this time there was a movement on foot which had first originated after the Prince's investigation at Carnarvon, in 1913, to persuade the Prince of Wales to take up residence in his principality, and for a certain season of every year to transfer his household to Wales. Several Welsh towns urged their claims upon him and the people of Glandudnion sent a special resolution to the Premier.

He had to content himself with promising to visit Wales whenever he could find the opportunity.

There followed a host of engagements in the spring of 1919. Every town and city was eager to confer upon the Prince some signal honor in appreciation of his services to the country and as a proof of their loyalty. The Prince was made a Freeman of the Borough of Plymouth and was admitted an Elder Brother of Trinity House, at the same time being called to the bar at Middle Temple, where he was made a Bachelor of the Inn.

In the great Elizabethan Hall, the Prince, in evening dress looked quite out of place even though he wore the broad ribbon of the Order of the Garter across his breast and several other important looking orders on the lapel of his coat. His sunburnt face and athletic bearing spoke more of open fields and sunlit country roads than musty, confined chambers, beloved to the legal fraternity.

On May 23, 1919, the Prince of Wales was admitted, by patrimony, to the freedom of the City of London. The month before, the King had approved of his son's promotion to Colonel-in-Chief of the Twelfth (Prince of Wales Royal) Lancers, and the Royal Scots Fusiliers, and the young Prince took this advancement as a direct assurance of his progress in the military career in which he had for the last few years devoted every energy.

The Prince traveled from Buckingham Palace to the Guildhall in an open landau and gravely acknowledged the spontaneous cheers of the huge crowds which had lined the route. He was received at the entrance to the Guildhall by the Lord Mayor and city officials. After inspecting a Guard of Honor of the Honourable Artillery Company, the Prince was escorted to the platform where the presentation was to take place. H. R. H. was obviously nervous, but as he signed the roll, thereby making himself the youngest Freeman of the City, his movements were quite dignified and confident.

The Lord Mayor inquired to know who presented the young Prince as a Freeman. The honor fell to the representatives of the Fishmongers Company, who presented His Royal Highness as an Honorary Freeman of their own company.

When the Prince of Wales stepped forward to speak he was cheered to the echo. He said, "I am deeply grateful to you for allowing me to come here today and to claim that franchise the right to which I possess by patrimony. It is a special pleasure to me . . . to be presented to you . . . as a fishmonger."

The part I played in the war was, I fear, very insignificant one. But from one point of view I shall never regret my period of service overseas. In those four years I mixed with men. In those four years I found my manhood. When I think of the future, and of the heavy responsibilities which may fall to my lot, I feel that the experience gained will stand me in good stead. With God's help I shall strive to follow the example of those distinguished men whose names have preceded mine on the long list of the Freemen of the City of London."

A truly characteristic speech, once again showing that modest, God-fearing side of the Prince's nature.

He had all along deprecated the danger he ran during his duties in France, but it was not until 1928 that Maj. C. H. Dudley-Ward, at the annual dinner of the London Branch of the Welsh Guards' Comrades' Association, threw a new light upon this subject.

As Colonel of the Welsh Guards, the Prince responded to the toast of his health and said that unfortunately he had not had the privilege of actually fighting in the Guards' Division, though he served in a unit associated with it.

Maj. C. H. Dudley-Ward replied that:

"It all depends on what you call fighting. I can remember when we were in the Houlihurst Forest; on the top of the hill we had a lot of trouble with a heavy French gun which had shelled us all day. We sent messages to say that we were being shelled by the French, but nobody paid any attention. We sent out runners and got a reply

SUMMER DRINKS

THE ZIPPER COCKTAIL. This drink is called the Zipper because you can pull yourself together with one yank. Instead of a cocktail shaker, a washing machine can be used for making large quantities. First, take a tumbler of absinthe. If absinthe is unavailable, cyanide of potassium will do. The results are just the same. Then drop in the whites of three eggs and add two parts soda crackers. You thus swallow the antidote the same time you take the drink. Pour into the cocktail mixer and shake the telephone receiver vigorously. Call the nearest physician and down the drink. This cocktail will give you just the right appetite for swallowing a stomach pump.

THE BROADWAY SCOTCH HIGHBALL. Pour two ounces of radiator alcohol into a reinforced glass. Add a dash of varnish to give it color and throw in a corn-cob pipe to give it that smoky taste. Pour in mineral water, drop in a few ice cubes and serve. By using bouillon cubes instead of ice cubes you can call it cold soup and your guests will blame the result on you.

THE BABE RUTH COCKTAIL. A very tasty drink. Gin is the first base. Next, pour in a tumbler of prescription rye. This sacrifice advances it to its second base. Then instead of mixing with ginger ale, pour in a tumbler of Scotch. This error gives it its third base. Add ice, drink and they will bring you home.

THE ONE-ROUND HOGAN COCKTAIL. To two parts gin add a dash of Italian or French vermouth. The difference between Italian and French vermouth is whether it was made in a marble or tin bathtub. Mix well and strain an ankle into it. Then make a slip in the human peel. If you make a slip, you can blame it on that. Add cracked ice, shake well and serve in reinforced mugs. This soothing drink should be sipped through a hose. If hose is unavailable, an old sock will do.

THE OYSTER COCKTAIL. (Indorsed by the W. C. T. U., blindfolded.) Take a peck of oysters and open them with a corkscrew. Then crack up a lot of ice and spread it on a soup plate. Lay a half dozen nude oysters on the ice and in the center place a small glass containing a dash of ketchup. Having one-tenth of 1 percent benzene of soda in the ketchup will give a group of church deacons a big kick. In large quantities this is a wicked drink. Three or four rounds of oyster cocktails have been known to cause pearls in the stomach, which are almost as dangerous as gall stones in the bladder. It is a cocktail that only the most experienced shell food drinkers should take.

THE ANGUS HARRINGTON SPECIAL. Into a quart of gin squeeze one watermelon. Add two parts nitric acid. This is not only a stimulating drink, but it also makes a nice base for "A" and "B" batteries.

THE UNCLE SAM COCKTAIL. One part tomato juice, one part milk and one part bitters. That gives you red, white and blue base. Then add 16 bottles of three-star brandy. That gives you the 48 stars. One jolt of this patriotic drink and it is impossible to stand up, even for "The Star Spangled Banner."

Velvet Bags.

Small pouch bags to carry with one's winter clothes are new and chic if they are covered with printed velvet.

Although the Prince was justly proud of the trust which had been placed in himself, he was still a frequent visitor to the family circle when not away on his subsequent missions of ambassadorship.

For the next few years, however, the Prince was destined to enjoy few of the comforts of his bachelor quarters. His time was spent, in the main, in gaining an intimate knowledge of the customs and temperaments of the peoples of the far-flung empire over which he will some day be called upon to rule.

The ceaseless round of arduous duties which the Prince had willingly fulfilled since his return to England from the Rhine at last took their toll. He had been run down for a few weeks, and catching a chill he succumbed to a slight attack of influenza which compelled him to cancel a few of his engagements, much to his disgust. He was well again and quite fit, however, before he proceeded upon the first of his great imperial missions.

Three-Cylinder Pendant

A NOVEL pendant consists of three cylinders about an inch long and three-quarters of an inch in diameter. The stone is green and carved with a design that is slightly hieroglyphic. One immediately thinks of all the stories one has read about mysterious jeweled being carved with secrets of state. The observer, particularly if female, has an impulse to touch the cylinders so that the powdered poison or actually paper, whichever you prefer, concealed inside, will drop into her dainty and trembling hand.

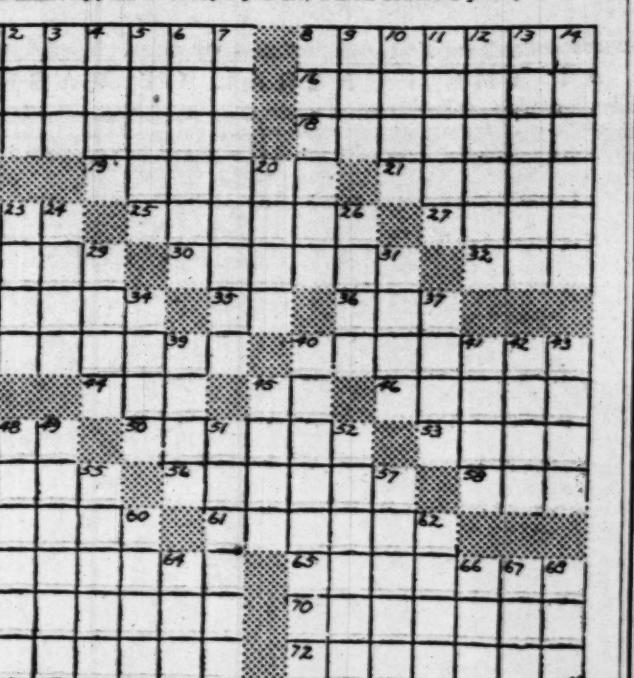

The stones are strung on black cord, and a black tassel finishes the pendant.

Jewelry of Old Race

NECLECKED warriors and maidens of a people who lived in New Mexico centuries before the Aztecs swept out of the Northwest to rule Mexico have been found in the Mimbres valley of New Mexico by an expedition from the Minneapolis Institute of Arts. The jewelry was made of semi-precious metals.

The party sought traces of the Mimbres race. It was in charge of Albert E. Jenks, University of Minnesota anthropologist, and had headquarters at Hurley, N. M.

WASHING the face at least once daily in this way is conceded the most important beauty rule of the day.

But only a soap of Nature's beauty oils—those of olive and palm—will cleanse the skin thoroughly and gently at the same time. Such a soap as Palmolive.

Scrubbing the face is too harsh for delicate skin fabric. Use Nature's way—your two hands, and gently massage the creamy Palmolive lather thoroughly into your skin.

Thus pores release their daily accumulation of grime and comedies. Thus skin is kept smooth and velvety—girlhood's charm retained.

Then rinse the face first with warm, then with colder water. And dry by gently patting the skin with a soft towel. Last of all, dab of cold cream to guard against dryness. That's Nature's way. It's simple, but a week will prove its value to your skin.

Be sure you get Palmolive—that's important. Everywhere—10¢ a cake.

BASY BREAD has become famous because of the character of the persons who have consumed it.

This class of people have eaten BASY BREAD with regularity—they have achieved the result they sought.

Children Have Some Rights That Parents Should Respect

Well-intentioned but blundering disregard of those rights is responsible for emotional upsets of the juvenile mind.

By Sally MacDougall.

LITTLE Richard's mother was bewailing the difficulty of getting her son to like carrots, and was reciting her troubles to the nursery laboratory experts of Teachers' College, Columbus University.

"But why insist upon carrots?" Dr. Ruth Andrus inquired.

"They're good for him, and I've been doing my very best to make him eat them," the distressed and dutiful parent explained.

That "very best," she went on to tell, usually consisted in calling her small son suddenly and unwillingly away from his play, compelling him to wash his hands and face immediately—or doing the job quickly and thoroughly for him—and regardless of his imploring and protesting howling, pumping him quickly onto a chair at the table before the carrots would have time to get cold, holding his rebellious little hands in one efficient big hand and feeding him with the other.

"Every time he opens his mouth to cry I put in a piece of carrot. It's the only way I can get him to eat them. I simply don't know what to do to get him to like them. He says he hates carrots."

The doctor looked at the parent, and asked:

"How would you like to have some good giant, some one four times as big as you are, come and jerk you out from your most interesting occupation, hurry you along and feed you the way you feed Richard?"

BECAUSE there are thousands of poor little Richards and their small sisters whose mealtime and playtime, getting up in the morning and going to bed at night, are being made utterly miserable by bad doses of good intentions, something had to be done about it. For the mental conflicts that by these means have been set up in young systems have been found to stunt the progress of children at school and to dog their footsteps and obstruct their happiness and efficiency all through life.

So a State-wide crusade has been started within the New York Department of Education to conquer and subdue hostile home environments, and incidentally to come into possession of a rich fund of knowledge about what goes on in the mysterious territory of a young child's mind. The new movement is called the Division of Child Development and Parental Education. Its main object is the education of parents on how to bring up their offspring.

The work of the newest educational division will consist largely in opening windows through which fathers and mothers will be able to view the mechanism that is so constantly and mysteriously, and often annoyingly, at work in the minds of their children.

R EASONS behind the howling resistance with which some stock of humanity fights with all his might for what he believes to be right will now be made plain to fathers and mothers, to whom it may not have occurred that the protesting baby has as much right to his opinion as they have to theirs.

In her laboratory at Teachers' College Dr. Andrus has learned a good deal from her young "subjects" about two dozen boys and girls between the ages of 15 months and 4 years, who come in the morning, stay for luncheon, a nap and sessions of play, and go home after 5 o'clock.

PERTURBED parent came in to complain about the lack of promptness and obedience on the part of Junior and his little sister. She hoped the doctor would be able to tell her what to do.

"Obedience? Just what do you mean?" Dr. Andrus asked.

"They're never ready to stop their play when I call them. They wait until they are good and ready. Then they come."

"And you want them to come at once?"

"Why, of course."

"And leave unfinished whatever they happen to be doing?"

"But they're not doing anything. They're only playing."

"Suppose you give them a warning call?" the young doctor advised.

"Tell them that you will expect them to come in two or three or five minutes. That will give them time to get ready."

"But you are from your most interesting occupation, hurry you along and feed you the way you feed Richard?"

SAHE went on to explain that it is just as important for a child to stick to the job of playing until it is done up to some reasonable point for quitting, as it is for a man to stick to his job of work until that is done; and that the same habit of concentration which operates in the infant mind is carried along into later life. The sins of parents in this one particular of interrupting children has, she believes, brought an immeasurable blight of inattention into the school and on into adult lives that might otherwise have been much more happy and effective.

After parents become acquainted with the causes behind juvenile conduct they will not, as a distracted New York mother recently did, bribe a youngster to be good before company. People were coming to dinner and she needed to be assured that her beautiful little daughter of 4 was going to be good. So she hired the young person for lady-like conduct and paid her in advance. The contract worked admirably until dessert was brought in, and then the good little girl became suddenly and annoyingly bad. Her mother's soft-voiced remonstrance was hushed by Mary's demand:

"It's time for some one to give me some more money. I've been good long enough for a quarter."

And because a child cannot learn too soon that he is living in a world which has a right to expect adaptations from him, parents should know that imposing fines is as bad as offering bribes.

The GREENE MURDER CASE
By J. J. Van DineA MOTOR RIDE
(November 12—November 25)

THE inquiry was pushed according to the best traditions of the Police Department. Captain Carl Hagedorn, the firearms expert, made a minute scientific examination of the bullets. The same revolver, he found, had fired all three shots; the peculiar rifling told him this; and he was able to state that the revolver was an old Smith & Wesson of a style whose manufacture had been discontinued. But, while these findings offered substantiation to the theory that Chester Greene's missing gun was the one used by the murderer, they added nothing to the facts already established or suspected. Deputy Inspector Carl Brenner, the burglar-expert, had conducted an exhaustive examination of the scene for evidential signs of a forced entrance, but had found no trace whatever of a housebreaker.

Dubois and his assistant Bellamy—the two leading finger-print authorities of the New York Police Department—went so far as to take finger-prints of every member of the Greene household, including Dr. von Blon, and these were compared with the impressions found in the hallways and in the rooms where the shootings had occurred. But when this tedious process was over not an unidentified print remained; and all those that had been found and photographed were logically accounted for.

Chester Greene's galoshes were taken to Headquarters and turned over to Capt. Jermyn, who carefully compared them with the measurements and the patterns made by Snitkin. No new fact concerning them, however, was discovered. The tracks in the snow, Capt. Jermyn reported, had been made either by the galoshes given him or by another pair of the exact size and last. Beyond this statement he could not, he said, conscientiously go.

It was established that no one in the Greene mansion, with the exception of Chester and Rex, owned galoshes; and Rex's were No. 7—three sizes smaller than those found in Chester's clothes-closet. Sproot used only storm-rubbers, size 8; and Dr. von Blon, who affected gaity in winter, always wore rubber sandals during stormy weather.

The search for the missing revolver occupied several days. Heath turned the task over to men trained especially in this branch of work and supplied them with a search-warrant in case they should catch any in position. But no obstacle was put in their way. The house was systematically ransacked from basement to attic. Even Mrs. Greene's quarters were subjected to a search. The old lady had at first objected, but finally gave her consent, and even seemed a bit disappointed when the men had finished. The only room that was not gone over was Tobias Greene's library. Owing to the fact that Mrs. Greene had never let the key go out of her possession, and had permitted no one to enter the room since her husband's death, Heath decided not to force the issue when she refused point-blank to deliver the key. Every other nook and corner of the house, however, was combed by the Sergeant's men. But no sign of the revolver rewarded their efforts.

The autopsies revealed nothing at variance with Dr. Doremus' preliminary findings. Julia and Chester had each died instantaneously from the effects of a bullet entering the heart shot from a revolver held at close range. No other possible cause of death was present in either body; and there were no indications of a struggle.

No unknown or suspicious person had been seen near the Greene mansion on the night of either murder, although several people were found who had been in the neighborhood at the time; and a bootmaker, who lived on the second floor of the Narcissus Flats in 33d street, opposite to the house, stated that he had been sitting at his window, smoking his bedtime pipe, during the time of both shootings, and could swear that no one had passed down that end of the street.

However, the guard which had been placed over the Greene mansion was not relaxed. Men were on duty day and night at both entrances to the estate, and every one entering or leaving the premises was closely scrutinized. So close a watch was kept that strange tradesmen found it inconvenient and at times difficult to make ordinary deliveries.

The reports that were turned in concerning the servants were unsatisfactory from the standpoint of detail; but all the facts unearthed tended to eliminate each subject from any possible connection with the crimes. Barton, the younger maid, who had quitted the Greene establishment the morning after the second tragedy, proved to be the daughter of respectable working people living in Jersey City. Her record was good, and her companions all appeared to be harmless members of her own class.

Hemming, it turned out, was a widow who, up to the time of her employment with the Greenes, had kept house for her husband, an iron-worker, in Altoona, Pa. She was remembered even then among her former neighbors as a religious fanatic who had led her husband sternly and exultantly in the narrow path of enforced rectitude. When he was killed by a furnace explosion she declared it was the hand of God striking him down for some secret sin. Her associates were few; they were in the

The summer gardener of the Greenes—a middle-aged Pole named Krimski—was discovered in a private saloon in Harlem, well under the benumbing influence of synthetic whisky—a state of beatific lassitude he had maintained, with greater or lesser steadfastness, since the end of summer. He was at once eliminated from police consideration.

The investigation into the habits and associates of Mrs. Mannheim and Sproot brought nothing whatever to light. Indeed, the habits of these two were exemplary, and their contacts with the outside world so meager as to be regarded almost as nonexistent. Sproot had no visible friends, and his acquaintances were limited to an English valet in Park avenue and the tradespeople of the neighborhood. He was solitary by nature, and what few recreations he permitted himself were indulged in unaccompanied. Mrs. Mannheim had rarely left the premises of the Greene house since she had taken up her duties there at the time of her husband's death, and apparently knew no one in New York outside of the household.

These reports dashed whatever hopes Sergeant Heath may have harbored of finding a solution to the Greene mystery by way of a possible accomplice in the house itself.

"I guess we'll have to give up the idea of an inside job," he lamented one morning in Markham's office a few days after the shooting of Chester Greene.

Vance, who was present, eyed him lazily. "I shouldn't say that, don't you know, Sergeant. On the contrary, it was indubitably an inside job, though not just the variety you have in mind."

"You mean you think some member of the family did it?" "Well—perhaps—something rather along that line," Vance drawled on his cigarette thoughtfully. "But that's not exactly what I meant. It's a situation, a set of conditions—an atmosphere, let us say—that's guilty. A subtle and deadly poison is responsible for the crimes. And that poison is generated in the Greene mansion."

"A swell time I'd have trying to arrest an atmosphere—or a poison either, for the matter of that," snorted Heath.

"Oh, there's flesh-and-blood victims awaiting your manacles, somewhere, Sergeant—the agent, so to speak, of the atmosphere."

Markham, who had been eavesdropping on the various reports of the case, sighed heavily, and settled back in his chair.

"Well, I wish to heaven," he interposed bitterly, "that he'd give us some hint as to his identity. The papers are at it hammer and tongs. There's been another delegation of reporters here this morning."

The fact was that rarely has there been in New York's journalistic history a case which had so tenaciously seized upon the public imagination. The shooting of Julia and Ada Green had been treated sensational but perfunctorily; but after Chester Greene's murder an entirely different spirit animated the newspaper stories. Here was something romantically sinister, something which brought back forgotten pages of criminal history. Columnists were devoted to accounts of the Greene family history. Genealogical archivists were delved into for remote titbits. Old Tobias Greene's record was raked over, and stories of his early life became the common property of the press. Pictures of all the members of the Greene family accompanied these spectacular tales, and the Greene mansion itself, photographed from every possible angle, was used regularly to illustrate the flamboyant accounts of the crimes so recently perpetrated there.

The story of the Greene murders spread over the entire country, and even the press of Europe found space for it. The tragedy, taken in connection with the social prominence of the family and the romantic history of its progenitors, appealed irresistibly to the morbidity and the snobbery of the public.

It was natural that the police and the District Attorney's office should be hounded by the representatives of the press; and it was also natural that both Heath and Markham should be sorely troubled by the fact that all their efforts to locate the man responsible had come to naught. Several conferences had been called in Markham's office, at each of which the ground had been carefully plowed, but not one helpful suggestion had been turned up. Two weeks after the murder of Chester Greene the case began to take on the aspect of a stalemate.

During that fortnight, however, Vance had not been idle. His situation had caught and held his interest, and not once had he dismissed it from his mind since that first morning when Chester Greene had applied to Markham for help. He said little about the case, but he had attended each of the conferences and from his casual comments I knew he was both fascinated and perplexed by the problem it presented.
